RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. ANDREWS. RESOLUTION No. 55.

In the House of Representatives, June 18, 1951.

Whereas, an apparently irreconcilable difference of opinion has arisen between various members of the General Assembly and the Budget Secretary concerning the revenue which will be obtained from various tax proposals, and

Whereas, this difference of opinion is apparently one that only time can resolve, and

Whereas, the pending session of the General Assembly is being prolonged by reason of conflicting views concerning the Commonwealth's fiscal problems, and

Whereas, the pending legislative deadlock would lose its significance if the Commonwealth were operating on the basis of an annual budget; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth be requested to furnish the General Assembly with an opinion as to whether the barriers against the enactment of an annual budget are inherent in the Constitution or are present in the Administrative Code, which is subject to amendment, and

Be it further resolved, that if the barriers against the enactment of an annual budget are not inherent in the Constitution, that it is the sense of this House that the General Assembly proceed to make whatever amendments to the Administrative Code as may be necessary in order to justify an annual budget, proceed to finance the essential operations of the Commonwealth for the fiscal year beginning June 1, 1951 and then adjourn sine die—subject to a special session call of the Governor of the Commonwealth at such time in 1952 as His Excellency, the Governor, may deem expedient.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. SCHMIDT asked and obtained unanimous consent to add Ronald L. Thompson as an additional sponsor to House Bill No. 350 on the final passage postponed calendar.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. SCHMIDT.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 350, as follows:

An Act to amend Section 699.4 of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (Pamphlet Laws 872) entitled "An act to consolidate amend and revise the penal laws of the Commonwealth" by authorizing the production and performance of civic opera between certain hours on Sundays in cities of the second class upon approval of the electors

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section 699.4 of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 872) entitled "An act to consolidate amend and revise the penal laws of the Commonwealth" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 699.4 Worldly Employment or Business on Sunday Whoever does or performs any worldly employment or business whatsoever on the Lord's day commonly called Sundays (works of necessity and charity only excepted) or uses or practices any game hunting shooting sport or diversion whatsoever on the same day not authorized by law shall upon conviction thereof in a summary proceeding be sentenced to pay a fine of four dollars ($4) for the use of the Commonwealth or in default of the payment thereof shall suffer six (6) days imprisonment

Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit the dressing of victuals in private families bakehouses lodging-houses inns and other houses of entertainment for the use of sojourners travellers or strangers or to hinder watermen from landing their passengers or ferry-men from carrying over the water travellers or persons removing with their families on the Lord's day commonly called Sunday nor to the delivery of milk or the necessities of life before nine of the clock in the forenoon nor after five of the clock in the afternoon of the same day nor shall anything herein contained be construed to prohibit the production and performance of civic opera in cities of the second class on Sundays between the hours of two o'clock post meridian and twelve o'clock midnight by nonprofit corporations and such cities with right to charge admission if the question of the production and performance of such civic opera is first submitted to the electors of the city within which such production and performance is proposed and approved by the affirmative vote of the electors. The hours prescribed by this amendment shall be daylight saving time in any such city during such part of the year when daylight saving time may be observed generally in such political subdivision

Section 2 Not oftener than once every four years the governing body of any city of the second class upon resolution duly adopted or electors equal to at least five per centum of the highest vote cast for any candidate in the city at the last preceding municipal election may petition the county board of elections to have a question concerning the production and performance of civic opera as prescribed in the preceding section submitted to the electors of the city and the county board of elections shall cause a question to be placed on the ballots or on the voting machines and submitted to the electors of the city at the first general or municipal election occurring at least sixty (60) days thereafter in the manner provided by the election laws of the commonwealth

Do you favor the production and performance of civic opera in cities of the second class by nonprofit corporations and cities of the second class regardless of whether an admission charge is made or is incidental thereto between the hours of 2 o'clock post-meridian and 12 o'clock midnight on Sunday?	YES
	NO

If a majority of the persons voting on such question vote "yes" then until a majority of the persons voting on the question vote "no" at a subsequent election civic opera may be produced and performed by nonprofit corporations and any such cities on Sundays between the hours of two o'clock post meridian and twelve o'clock midnight within the city voting thereon with the right to charge admission if a majority of the persons voting on the question vote "no" such right shall be denied and the same question shall not be voted upon again prior to the election occurring approximately four years thereafter

Section 3 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BEECH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Schmidt.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Schmidt, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. BEECH. Mr. Speaker, what is the purpose of this bill?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of the bill as set forth in the bill itself would permit the showing of civic light opera in the city of Pittsburgh between the hours of 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon and midnight, providing that a referendum shall be held in the city of Pittsburgh, and if a majority of the citizens of the city so determine we will have civic opera on Sunday night; otherwise we will not.

Mr. BEECH. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman agree to an amendment to this bill if it conformed with the Sunday regulations in regard to professional baseball and football games?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. Speaker, that would be to limit it until 7:00 o'clock in the evening?

Mr. BEECH. Mr. Speaker, that is correct.

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. Speaker, ordinarily I would, but in this case I would not for this reason, that part of the production of the civic opera is under stagelights which can only be shown at night. This is an out-door arena and the setting is all done by stage-lights to make the production beautiful and enjoyed by those who attend the civic opera.

Mr. BEECH. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman say that there is a great clamor in Allegheny County for this Sunday opera? Would he say that there is sort of a crusade going on for it?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. Speaker, in answer to that question, there are quite a number of people who are desirous of being able to attend a civic opera on Sunday evening. This type of entertainment has been popular and it is recreational. It is in the summer, in the out-doors, and of course, the referendum when held would determine whether or not the majority of the people of Pittsburgh would want this opera.

Mr. BEECH. Mr. Speaker, for the sponsor's information, there are a great number of people in Allegheny County that are opposed to this bill in any form whatsoever. We have all received communications from the Sabbath School Association of Allegheny County, from the Lord's Day Alliance, from the Pittsburgh Board of Presbytery, and I would say that the heads of these groups represent hundreds of thousands of good church-going people. I for one feel that these people should be considered before we pass this bill.

Mr. BEECH. Mr. Speaker, has there been any political leader, whether it is Democrat or Republican that has come out publicly for this bill?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. Speaker, that I cannot state. I have talked with them and they have told me that they are for it.

Mr. BEECH. Mr. Speaker, well, would the gentleman call the Members of this House political leaders in their own right?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. Speaker, well, they should be.

Mr. BEECH. Mr. Speaker, well, does the gentleman think that we should be put on the spot to the effect of coming out for or against this bill when probably the leaders back home in either party have not made known their wishes one way or another in this bill?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman, I might say that one of the outstanding organizations in Allegheny County is the Civic Club of Allegheny County. In its issue of May 1951 its legislative bulletin referring to House Bill No. 350, the Civic Club of Allegheny County takes the position that the bill is in the public interest. The performance of such semi-classical productions on Sunday is quite properly a matter for local home-rule decision. Now that is the decision of the Civic Club of the County from which Mr. Beech and myself come.

Mr. BEECH. Mr. Speaker, is that the reason that the gentleman had this bill amended so that there would be a referendum?

Mr. SCHMIDT. I had this bill amended at the request of the Lord's Day Alliance group, who sent a letter to every Member of this House in which they suggested that the bill in its original form be amended to provide for a referendum, and that the referendum should be such that not only could civic opera be voted in, but if, after a period of years, the people are opposed to it, they can also vote it out.

Mr. BEECH. Mr. Speaker, well, now let us get down to the financial standing of this Civic Opera Association. From what I understand—and it has been in the paper a great many times that they are operating at a loss. Is that correct?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. Speaker, that is correct.

Mr. BEECH. Mr. Speaker, and is it not so that the gentleman feels that if they could operate on Sunday there would be an opportunity to draw a greater crowd, and possibly they could see a profit or at least break even. Is that right?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. Speaker, it is natural that if there were an additional performance each week, there would be additional income.

Mr. BEECH. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

This bill in my opinion and in the pinion of a great many members of the churches of Allegheny has not been improved by this amendment to provide a referendum.

I understand by the grapevine—I do not know how true it is, that when the bill passes this House and goes over to the Senate, it will be re-amended to remove the referendum angle. That is only hearsay—I cannot prove it, but it has come to my attention on several occasions.

I for one cannot go along with the bill. I think these hundreds of thousands of church people not only in Allegheny County but throughout the State of Pennsylvania should be taken into consideration. There are only a few hours left in the Sabbath day that they can call their own. Up to 7:00 o'clock the professional sports operate and after 7:00 o'clock in the city of Pittsburgh we would have an opera, so I would say to you it is a bad bill. The gentleman has admitted himself that unless the bill goes through and the referendum is approved by the people, that the opera will continue to operate in the red.

So on the basis of that and for the benefit of the Church people throughout the State I ask that this bill be defeated.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Schmidt, if he desires the floor, or to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Guarnieri, if he desires the floor.

Mr. GUARNIERI. Mr. Speaker, this bill apparently affects Allegheny County or the city of Pittsburgh and not Philadelphia County.

However, I believe that any bill that carries within it a provision for a local referendum, that is a vote by the people to be affected as to whether they want to do or not do a thing, carries within it one of the cardinal and basic principles of the American constitutional system.

No man can argue against that, and he should not argue against that, so that I must lend my voice in announcing this principle in support of this measure. So much for the merits of the democratic or constitutional provision.

Secondly, in my opinion, there is nothing which more approaches Godliness and a true spirit of God in my eyes than the beauties of music, or the beauties of poetry or all the arts, for certainly we reach higher to God that way oftentimes than in some other ways. I think that every man should be allowed to listen to music if he wishes to, or to attend civic opera if it is his desire to do so, and in that manner commune with his God, as well as attending services, as I do. I know in my district there are many religious people. I am a religious person, and I still think that the people in my district would still like to see opera as well as TV shows and other things. For that purpose I am asking the Philadelphia delegation to go along in support of this bill to give the people of Pittsburgh a chance to decide what they want to do in their own community.

I do not think it is anti-God or anti-Christ to give a person the right to decide upon that question.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, because this bill has been such a matter of personal concern to the gentleman from Pittsburgh, its sponsor, it is with sincere regret that I take the floor to oppose it.

The gentleman from Philadelphia has just extolled the beauties of music. But who in thunder ever said that most civic opera was music? The gentleman from Philadelphia has extolled the beauties and the dignity of a referendum. I doubt that he would suggest that we have a referendum as to whether we wanted to legalize murder. I doubt that he would propose an amendment to abolish the Sabbath in whole.

You cannot abolish by referendum a Divine command, and there is just as much of a Divine command for the religious observance of the Sabbath as there is a Divine command against any of the cardinal sins.

There was a time, and it was quite a number of years ago, when I sincerely believed in what was then termed the continental Sunday. The continental Sunday where you met in your beer gardens, and so forth and so on without regard for the special features of the day. But as I have grown older, I have become convinced that one of the things lacking in this generation is the discipline which Sabbath observance imposed upon my grandfather and my grandmother, and which my grandfather and grandmother imposed upon me, and which I observed until I became 19 or 21 and knew pretty much everything that there was to be known at that time, like other young men of that age.

We have witnessed, during the last twenty years, the gradual dismemberment of Sabbath observance. And each progressive step has been justified on the stand that somebody else has just been given the privilege. Because we have baseball we should have hockey. And because we have freedom of action, we should have civic opera, and little by little by a progressive move upon the part of those who believe that there is no special reason why a particular day should have a particular significance, we have come to the point where we practically are on the eve of legalizing Sabbath desecration the whole distance.

I am not expressing a caucus view; I am expressing only a personal view. I pray that somewhere along the line, if we are going to preserve the traditions of our American democracy that we prize so much, we stop the trend of Sabbath desecration, and begin beating a retreat back to the ideas and the ideals and the customs of our fathers.

APPROPRIATION BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 103, as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission for improvements to the Daniel Boone Homestead

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated to the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission for the Daniel Boone Homestead a property of the Commonwealth for the construction of a utility building to be used for administration offices meeting room lavatory with sewage disposal and water for the same bath house garage storage and general utility for the alteration and repair of the buildings for the purchase of furniture and household furnishings for the Homestead and farming implements machinery and wagons for the barn and for use in cultivating the land and for fencing grading and planting and for incidental and contingent expenses on the Homestead property

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to make what may be some superficial comments concerning the appropriation problem as a whole. What I will have to say about the appropriation program will be said at this time and I would request the privilege of referring to measures that are not before the House, but which will be in the course of the day.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the gentleman will no doubt expedite the work of the House so without objection the gentleman will proceed.

Mr. ANDREWS. First of all I want to pay my tribute to the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood; to the members of his Committee who have labored with him and to that stalwart co-worker who is part and parcel of the Appropriations Committee, Mr. Stoner.

Initially I find one grave fault in the appropriation bill. I find that the Appropriations Committee has listed for its use, as I recall, $35,000. Of that amount $25,000 can be spent during the interim, the remainder is to be spent during the next session. It is impossible for the Appropriations Committee to render the service to this General Assembly that it should render under an appropriation of $25,000.

The Appropriations Committee lacks staff, it lacks personnel, without which it cannot, during the interim, examine the operations of our state government and be in a position, when the appropriation period begins, to meet the department heads and the Budget Office on equal terms.

I have been a member exofficio of the Appropriations Committee and I have attended sessions of that Committee when we had not had opportunity to study the problems that a particular department was presenting, sufficiently to enable us to ask intelligent questions. I say in all seriousness that this bill should be amended and the Appropriations Committee should have as a minimum $75,000.

I would like to ask of the Appropriations Committee whether all the appropriation bills that will be offered have been offered to this House as yet.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOOD. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. What appropriation bills if any are still to come?

Mr. WOOD. Well, there is a civil defense bill and a few others and most of the rest of them are over in the Senate.

Mr. ANDREWS. When will the civil defense bill be offered in the opinion of the Chairman?

Mr. WOOD. I could not tell that, it might be in a week or two. It depends on how long we are going to be here.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker can the Chairman inform the House as to the probable amount that the civil defense bill will carry?

Mr. WOOD. We have not discussed that before the Committee yet, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Is there an appropriation bill to finance the Mintess bill in the keeping of the Committee?

Mr. WOOD. The Mintess bill is not in my Committee. There is another bill and I think it is $350,000.

Mr. ANDREWS. There is a bill to finance the Mintess bill if it becomes a law; there is an appropriation bill pending?

Mr. WOOD. I could not tell the exact amount, but it is not $350,000.

Mr. ANDREWS. What is the total, the grand total, of the general fund appropriation bill so far reported?

Mr. WOOD. I cannot give you the exact figures but it is around $624 million, a few thousand over that.

Mr. ANDREWS. When we have finished today's session, if we pass all the bills in their present form, in the Chairman's opinion we will have appropriated six hundred and how many million?

Mr. WOOD. $624 million that is just in the general appropriation bill.

Mr. ANDREWS. What is the total, $624 billion, in general appropriation bill? Can the Chairman tell us the amount carried by other appropriation bills that have already been passed?

Mr. WOOD. Already been passed, does the gentleman mean, or on the calendar?

Mr. ANDREWS. Either passed or on the calendar.

Mr. WOOD. I could not tell you that, I did not add them up yet.

Mr. ANDREWS. When will we know the reserve upon which it is possible to draw, during the closing hours of the session? There are undoubtedly other measures that are pending that entail expense and I guess we will have them will we not Mr. Chairman?

Now the difference between $624 million and 883 or 853 which was it, that they estimated revenues?

Mr. WOOD. 853 I think, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. $853 million. So we have $139 million to go on at the expiration of the session today, is that right?

Mr. WOOD. No there is more revenue than $853 million.

Mr. ANDREWS. General fund revenue?

Mr. WOOD. Just wait till I get my book.

Mr. ANDREWS. I think you will find, Mr. Speaker there is a general fund appropriation around $853 million as suggested in the Governor's budget. That includes the $20 million for civil defense. My figures may be wrong, but that is my understanding. I think the gentleman will find that if there is a reserve of $20 million we have $833 million to play with.

Very well Mr. Speaker, one further question of the gentleman. How much does the cost of legislation so far enacted by this House, plus the legislation the administration proposes to enact exceed the budget estimate if any?

What departmental appropriations are above the budget estimate?

How closely have the deliberations of the Appropriations Committee been confined within the periphery of the administrative budget?

Mr. WOOD. I would say that the general appropriation bills are about four or five millions above the Governor's budget. Practically all of that is in the Department of Welfare.

Mr. ANDREWS. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

If the Members of the House through the years have taken the occasion to examine the format of one appropriation bill they have examined the format of all appropriation bills.

Our appropriation measures have fallen into a pattern, an indefinite pattern, a pattern that gives, for instance, the Lieutenant Governor—he goes from $33,000 to $47,000. A little amount for postage, telegrams, telephone, travel, clerical, auto maintenance, mileage charges for auto uses, supplies and so forth to be used at the discretion of the Lieutenant Governor. Well that is alright. He is sort of a member of the family and should be permitted to handle discretionary funds.

The Auditor General—now there is a remarkable instance, as I get the figures—the Auditor General asks in the 1951 budget exactly to a dollar what he asked in the 1949 budget. If costs of living have affected the individual it has affected every Department of State government. If the Auditor General's department was operating economically in the 1949 budget it would inevitably have to advance its figures for 1951, because salaries have increased, materials have increased, every factor that enters into the conduct of that Department has increased.

What can the Auditor General do with his money after paying salaries? You do not know by looking at the bill what the salaries are. They did not spend it for autos, furniture, furnishings, equipment, supplies, printing, binding, patent indices, law books and other books necessary for the proper conduct of the office. Under the terms of the bill the only guarantee this Legislature has is the integrity of the Auditor General. It is particularly fortunate that we have at this time an Auditor General whose personal integrity cannot be questioned. But I do say to the Auditor General and I do say to the Members of this House that either the 1949 budget was a phoney or he is not asking for enough money now.

The things the State Treasurer can do—now he is going to operate for $5,000 less during the next biennium than he operated in the 1949 biennium. I say the same thing. If the 1949 budget was right, then the 1951 budget is wrong. There is a long list of special features under the Auditor General and I don't want to abuse your patience by going into them.

I see that the Department of Agriculture wants a bit of an increase. $3,650,000 to $3,910,000.

I wonder if anyone knows what the total of lapsed funds in the various departmental totals. In my understanding, at January 1st of this year the Department of Agriculture had spent one third of its budget leaving two thirds of its budget to spend during the first six months of the present year. Was the money spent? Did any of it lapse? How much money in other Departments has lapsed? Does anybody know?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Smith.

Mr. SMITH. I do not have the figures of the lapsed funds available at this time. If the gentleman would want them I will be glad to get them for him.

Mr. ANDREWS. After today the die will have been cast. It is too late. Tomorrow the bill will be sent to the Senate for consideration by the statesmen over there.

Mr. SMITH. I will give them to the gentleman for his own personal information if he would like them.

Mr. ANDREWS. No, Mr. Speaker.

Now the Department of Commerce, there is another institution, it operated in the last biennium for $1,200,000 and right on the nose in the next biennium, it is going to operate for $1,200,000. Is not it remarkable with everything increasing, all the prices increasing that it is going to operate at $1,200,000.

Salaries? Well you do not know what the salaries are.

General expenses? You can spend money anyway under that heading. Advertising, supplies, printing, equipment, necessary work in the Department; collecting press information, distributing information to departments, boards, commissions, to legislative offices, to legislative commissions, to Members of this legislature, how much for what? The bill does not say.

It is very peculiar that a year after the event, the Governor's office and the budget office can get out a voluminous report and itemize the total expenditures under general fund. They tell you what the expenditures for the year, beginning June 1st and ending May 31st 1952, were. They tell you the salaries, the wages, the fees, the cost for printing, binding, for traveling expenses, telephone and telegraph, equipment and the whole ball of wax.

It is very peculiar that we can have these facts after the event but we cannot have an appropriation bill that tells the Members of this House what each Department is going to spend for salaries, what it expects to spend for transportation, what it expects to spend for other stated items. It must know or it could not make up a budget.

The Department of Forests and Waters makes up a $5,850,000 budget, but there is no itemization. How does the Department of Forests and Waters know that it is going to need $5,850,000? If it does not know, who arrived at that figure, and if it does know why have not we established a practice of having the Department tell us what it tells the Governor and what it tells the Budget Office.

The same way with the Department of Health. It goes from $5,915,000 to $6,800,000. There is no itemization of the basic appropriation. Special appropriations are itemized.

We do not know what the Sanitary Water Board costs. We do not know what the Advisory Health Board costs, and we do not know the amounts in the budget for proposed salary increases.

We know that in the Department of Health and the Department of Public Instruction and in the Department of Welfare kept technical people have been leaving Pennsylvania by droves to secure employment in other States for the simple reason that Pennsylvania underpays its technical help. Now if this exodus is not to continue—and some bureaus in the Department of Public Instruction are now inoperative because they do not have technical staffs—if we are going to raise the standard and retain our key people, we have to pay competitive wages.

I would like to know whether provision is made in the department budget for that very thing, and at this point I advise the Majority Leader to tell us what provision is made in the departmental budget for increasing wages, and such other questions as were propounded yesterday, and concerning which I am certain he will have brilliant illuminating answers.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I certainly do appreciate the complimentary remarks that the gentleman has just made. I hope he still thinks they are brilliant after we have finished.

I must agree with the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, in several things he has said today. I agree with him that the Appropriations Committee needs more money to operate efficiently. But that seems to be one of the faults that we have in this House. We have been bending over backward for years to economize on everything, and particularly ourselves. I feel that this entire House needs more technical advisers, and I hope that some day our budget will include technical advice. A lot of the things the gentleman has talked about require experts. None of us in this House are experts to that degree—some of us may be; but all of us are not.

The Appropriations Committee needs more money; we need a technical staff to operate in this House, and I agree with him in that respect.

The gentleman has spoken about the appropriations being cut. The Departments all, I am sure, asked for more money in their original requests. I do not know whether this is horse trading or not, but the gentleman knows and everyone knows that you always ask for more and get a little bit less; if you ask for less, you get cut. So you have to have something to come down from. The Governor definitely cut over $35,000,000 from his Budget this year.

The gentleman asked for a lot of information. He, being a member of the Appropriations Committee, I know realizes that every bit of that information is available to the Committee. In this case the Committee itself, which is comprised of Members of this House happens to be our technical staff.

I understand there is what is known as the Budget Request Ledger that is available. I also think, and I think the gentleman will agree with me, that if that Budget Request Ledger were to be put into printed form for every Member of this House, it would cost thousands and thousands of dollars; but it is available to our experts in the House and our experts are the Appropriations Committee.

I will yield, Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman would like to make a statement.

Mr. ANDREWS. I would like to ask a question, Mr. Speaker.

The Budget Request Ledger is itemized, so much for this, so much for that, why then would it not be proper practice for the Appropriations Committee in drafting its bill to state the items in the departmental appropriations? They were submitted as items. The Appropriation Committee knows what the items are; but the Members of this House do not know what the items are. Why not have an appropriation bill that will give the Members of the House at least part of the information which it imparted to the Appropriations Committee?

Mr. SMITH. I think, Mr. Speaker, to answer that question—any Member of this House, I am quite sure, who is interested enough to find out that information can have it given to him and would have it given to him very freely from the Chairman of the Committee.

I happen to have what I think is the Budget Request Ledger on my desk. It took two men to carry it in. Knowing what our printing bills are around here, particularly with some of our codification of bills, I am afraid that to do something like that—although the Minority Leader would know more about this than I, because he is far more skilled with the Budget—I imagine it would cost a lot of money to print a bill such as that.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Smith, yield to the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews?

Mr. SMITH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I failed to make myself clear. I did not suggest that the Members of the House be furnished with copies of the Budget Request Ledger; I simply asked why in framing the appropriation bills, the Appropriations Committee could not observe the same items. The Budget Request Ledger says so much for salaries; it says so much for telephones; it says so much for travel; it says so much for refurnishing—now why cannot the appropriation bills follow the same schedule of items for the information of the Members, in the bill, not the ledger?

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I think I have interpreted the gentleman correctly and I still feel that will probably be, not double, but it would probably be six or eight times its present size to put all those details in an appropriation bill.

Yesterday the gentleman asked several questions, Mr. Speaker. To go into all of them in detail would require quite a lot of time. I have them here. They have been given to me by the Appropriations Committee. But I would like to give him some of the figures for which he asked.

He asked for the total appropriation for all Departments, for the payrolls, comparing 1951 and 1953 with 1949 and 1951. The total allocated for salary and wages for 1951-1953 is $123,921,000; in 1949-51 it was $111,000,000 and some cents—I am giving it to the gentleman in round figures. These increases this years I would take it would be due to salary increases that have been given over the last two years, and also an increased number of people on our payroll because of our hospital expansion under on our GSA program, that is, our state owned hospitals. That is an $11,000,000 increase and that would account for a good part of that; in fact, most of it.

The hospital requests that were made in 1951-53 totalled $18,000,000; in 1949-51 they totalled $14,365,000. Our general appropriations bill carries $15,993,000,—that is almost $16,000,000 appropriations for state aided hospitals. The Governor recommended $15,365,000. We have increased that almost $600,000. Now there is no construction item in this general appropriation bill.

He also requested the amounts of money requested by the medical schools. This is set up in rather a peculiar way. I cannot account for why it is done this way; but I can give him the figures.

The University of Pennsylvania and the University of Pittsburgh do not get a definite allocation for their medical schools; they get a general allocation, and from that they allocate money for their medical schools.

There are several others here, and if the gentlemen would like me to give him these figures, I will. The Women's Medical College of Philadelphia have requested for 1951-53 $350,000. Their appropriation for 1949-51 was $250,000.

The Jefferson Medical College has requested $1,349,000. They have been increased from $876,000 in 1949-51.

Hahneman requested $1,351,000; in 1949-51 they were given $680,000.

Temple University is another one where it slipped down. They requested $1,500,000. Their appropriation for 1951 was $1,375,000.

They may also be working on the same premise that a lot of the Departments and a lot of individuals work, that you ask for more so that you can come down from something. That seems to be the general practice in human life; when we are selling something, we ask for more if we have to come down, and that is probably the reason for the differential in a lot of these figures.

The gentleman made a statement about our employes going away to private industry. There is no doubt that we in government cannot pay our employes really what they are worth. It is unfortunate, but it is true. I believe that our employes should be one of our first considerations, and I think the gentleman believes so too. We should reach a happy medium some where between private industry and government, and probably at a little higher rate than we are paying today.

I have a statement here—I do not believe that the gentleman has seen it because it was given to me—that was released to the press by the Governor. I would like to read one paragraph of it. The Governor says in this statement:

"As contemplated early in this administration, the Legislature will be asked before adjournment to appropriate $10,000,000 not heretofore requested in the Budget, for increases in salaries of state employes during the next two years, due to inflationary higher cost of living. Of course, if the funds are not provided by the Legislature, these increases cannot be granted. Employees of the Legislature itself have already received a 12 percent increase by Senate Bill No. 3, passed very early in the session."

I think the Governor realizes that our employees will have to be paid more money if we are to keep them in governmental service. I believe we will have to pay them more money and I hope the Senate will see fit to pass the tax bills so that we can afford to pay them more.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman, and I shall now be very brief.

His last statement about the $10,000,000 was the particular thing for which I was gunning. I intended to show the schedule of salaries in this Commonwealth as compared with the schedule of salaries for the same kind of job in other commonwealths. If the $10,000,000 had not been trotted out by His Excellency, the Governor, I might have presumed upon the time of this House to tell him how to get the money. That, now at this time is not my particular problem.

Mr. Speaker, I have just one more line of inquiry and I am making it simply to get the record straight. I presume the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Sollenberger is the one best equipped to answer the question.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Sollenberger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, on the basis of legislation passed, and legislation on the calendar today, what is the overall cost of public instruction?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe I can answer the question of the overall cost to the Department of Public Instruction. For the public schools—

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I mean on the part of the Commonwealth.

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, if I recall correctly, for the public schools it would be around $270 million—$273,450,000 or $273,540,000. I believe that that is about correct.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, as compared in 1949 with what figure?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, $203 million or an additional $70 million. I believe that is the latest data we have on that.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, an additional $70 million?

I would ask the gentleman to be very particular on his figure in answering as to the amount of the increase.

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, well that I think is correct.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, approximately $70 million?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, could the gentleman tell us the amount of the increase in the appropriations for teachers retirement?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, no I cannot answer that correctly. It will be several million dollars but I do not have the statistical data on hand just now.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, would not it be $11 million?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, approximately that, I would say.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, can the gentleman tell us the amount of the increase in transportation costs?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, I understand $4 million but I am not certain that that is exact. I think it is $4 million for transportation, on the increase. The $11 million is the correct data for the other, for the retirement.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, other than teachers can the gentleman tell us what increases the present bill carries over the 1949 amounts?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman mean House Bill Nos. 333 and 334?

Mr. ANDREWS. No. Mr. Speaker, I mean other than that; increases other than the increases for retirement and the increases for transportation.

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, I do not have the other data apart from those three items.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman will probably agree that there were at least increases of approximately $5 million on other general items in the budget.

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, yes without question for the Colleges and so forth.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman have in mind the increase for teacher college salaries?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, well no—the general increase, on that—oh the increase, I beg your pardon. Yes, that is quite possible. I was thinking about the overall amount.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, a final question. What is the cost of the increased subsidy to the teachers? How much do they get in the next biennium that they did not get in this biennium?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, I would say approximately $55 million to $56 million.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, then I would say to the gentleman that if he says that the overall increase in the Department of Public Instruction budget is $70 million and then he subtracts all of the other increases; various items such as transportation, retirement, teacher's colleges and these other things, he cannot give the teachers $50 million because it is not there.

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, some of the items he mentioned in this last statement are not the public school items. I made that very clear in my first statement that $70 million increase is for the public schools not the colleges. I believe that if you would add the $4 million and $11 million it would make $15 million.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, yes. $11 million for retirement, $4 million for transportation and $5 million for the other items that have been increased, there are about forty of them, and it makes about $20 million.

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, well $20 million plus $55 million would be about $75 million which would leave a discrepancy of $2 million on the overall increase of the $73 million or a total of $273 million. It is quite possible that one of those items is not counted in the public school expenses but is counted in with the Department of Public Instruction expenses which go, of course, much above that. So that includes colleges and everything the Department of Public Instruction has jurisdiction over and that is an entirely different question.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, this really could be continued for a time but all we would do is amplify the record and probably contribute to the confusion rather than clarify the situation.

The point that I have been driving at is that you are passing an appropriation bill up on the 600 millions and in practically every instance you are handing a blank check to the head of the Department, subject to the control of the Executive, to spend that money according to his whims, except in the instances where the Department must meet mandated expenditures. And I say that that is one heck of a way to draw an appropriation bill.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, as a member of the Appropriations Committee for quite a number of sessions I want to congratulate our Floor Leader on raising a very interesting question. It is a question that the House should take the time to consider.

The Appropriations Committee, which I find no fault with, does not receive sufficient funds to conduct the business of an Appropriations Committee.

The Members of the House of Representatives that are members of the Appropriations Committee cannot find the time during the session of the Legislature in which to attend the meetings of the Appropriations Committee because many meetings of the Appropriations Committee are held on Monday mornings and other times when it is almost impossible for the members of the Committee to attend those meetings. I, as a member, would be very happy if I could find the time to attend all the meetings of the Appropriations Committee.

I think this House should finally raise the cry to the general public that the cost of government, the cost that is in the interest of the people of Pennsylvania, the money that is spent is not as exorbitant as many people would like us to believe.

I want to say in closing that this question is a very vital question to the Members of this House and to the people of Pennsylvania.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOOD. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Smith.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether this is the general appropriation bill which is before us now?

Mr. SMITH. I believe it is, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know further whether the appropriation of $6,000,000 to the Department of Welfare on page 19 of the bill includes the sum of $150,000 which the Department desired or requested for use in combatting alcoholism in the state of Pennsylvania?

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I believe that that $150,000 was taken out of the request of the Department by the Appropriations Committee.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, on June 17th there appeared an item in the Harrisburg Patriot-News entitled:

Officials Seek
Fund to Treat
Alcoholics

$150,000 Budget
Restoration Asked

Efforts are being made by state health officials to restore the $150,000 budget item for care and treatment of alcoholics—a new state service planned for more than a year

The alcoholic-care project was scuttled by the governor's office in revising the state budget for the next two years prior to introduction of the general appropriation bill in the Assembly.

It was learned the action was taken by budgetary officials without consulting health department experts. In his original budget John S. Fine recommended the $150,000 allocation to start the new state service.

ACTION THIS WEEK

Health secretary Dr. Russell E Teague said yesterday he expects to carry his campaign for restoration of the appropriation to the House Appropriations Committee this week.

For more than a year, a preliminary survey of facilities for treatment of alcoholics in Pennsylvania has been underway in the health department's alcoholic division, headed by Mrs. Helen C. Snyder.

Mrs. Snyder found that virtually no facilities exist for the average alcoholic to receive scientific treatment. The state funds now sought by the health department would go largely to institutions as state aid to encourage expansion of services for rehabilitation of alcoholics.

60,000 ALCOHOLICS

Some 60,000 alcoholics are reported in Pennsylvania at present. Those capable of rehabilitation who have no opportunity for guided treatment are currently losing an average of 22 working days a year while drunk.

Much of the $150,000 sought by the department for alcoholic rehabilitation activities would aid hospitals in providing for care of victims of alcoholism—now classed as a disease.

While private treatment is available for the few who can pay for specialized care which is out of reach of the average budget, Mrs. Snyder found in her survey that for the alcoholic person of ordinary means "hospitalization is almost an impossibility" at present.

AMOUNT SUGGESTED

An appropriation of $350,000 for this purpose has been suggested by Pennsylvania Alcoholic Beverage Study, Inc., as the equivalent of one-half of one per cent. of state liquor store profits.

Led by Connecticut, which has a well-established program for care and treatment of alcoholics, other states doing something about this recently-recognized problem include Minnesota, Rhode Island, California, Oregon, North Carolina and Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Mr. Speaker, back in 1947 this House joined in a joint resolution of the Senate instructing the Joint State Government Commission to make a study of alcoholism. Such a study was made and during the 1949 session we passed Act 213 which amended the Administrative Code of the Commonwealth and charged the Department of Health with the power and the duty of investigating this subject of alcoholism in respect to rehabilitation, to compile and maintain statistics and so forth on the subject, and to take such other steps as may be necessary to procure such information and data as may be deemed helpful in the treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics.

Now we have come to the point where we have made the studies; they have been submitted to us. We know or we should know something about this problem and by this time we should be convinced that alcoholism is a disease and should be treated as such.

The Department of Health has made a very modest request for $150,000, which as the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Smith, stated a few minutes ago has been dropped from the appropriation bill by the House Appropriations Committee.

From 1933 when the sale of beer and liquor became legal in the state of Pennsylvania, to the end of May, 1950 the net profits to the state of Pennsylvania from the liquor business, according to the best information I could get, amounted to $362,541,000.

In addition to that an enormous sum was added to the cost of liquor and beer which was used for relief purposes. Some of that money has gone back to municipalities where the licensees operate their businesses. Some $86,500,000 has gone back to them for local purposes.

It is obvious that the state of Pennsylvania is the beneficiary to a great degree in its financial matters from the liquor industry. And, of course, these alcoholics that I am talking about today are those persons who for one reason or another come under the evil aspect of the liquor trade. Certainly none of them wants to be an alcoholic. They did not start out to be, and they would like not to be; but they happen to have fallen into this disease, and it is up to us to help them get out of it.

I think we have a definite moral obligation in this state to do something for these people. We do not just let people become sick and when they are helpless say to them: "We are doing nothing for you. You would not have had to drink; therefore, since it is self imposed we are going to shun you."

If we do not restore this meager sum for this beneficial purpose today, I think we are in effect saying to these 60,000 people: "You are lepers in our colony; you are untouchable. We do not want anything to do with you. You can go and solve your own problems. We do not care if you wreck your families or what you do, we are not going to help you. We will help the tuberculosis patients. We will help all the other people who need hospitalization in this Commonwealth and have not the funds to pay for it; but not you. You got this way by drinking and you can get out of it the best way you can."

In view of the enormous amount of money made by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania it certainly seems to me to be "penny wise and pound foolish" to save this $150,000 at the cost of these poor individuals who are suffering from this disease. In my opinion it is like a corporation which does a business of a half billion dollars a year refusing to buy erasers for its office force on the ground that they might cost $1,000.

I have had prepared, and I ask unanimous consent of the House to offer amendments to this bill which would restore that $150,000 and raise our appropriation from $6,800,000 to $6,960,000. And this amendment gentlemen, I hope you will support.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend Sec. 2, page 19, lines 19 and 20, by striking out the words and figures "eight hundred thousand dollars ($6,800,000)" and inserting in lieu thereof; "nine hundred fifty thousand dollars ($6,950,000)."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of an amendment at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, this is probably one time when we could use some of the experts we just talked about. I cannot say that this is an unworthy cause on which to spend $150,000, because it definitely does have its advantages. But I do think this is a problem that is a lot different than most of us realize.

In the first place, the treatment of alcoholics, although it might be considered and is considered a disease, is not the kind of treatment that is done in a hospital, similar to other diseases. I understand that this $150,000 is just for administration. I believe I am right on that. If this bill were for a half million or a million dollars, so that we could establish clinics over the state and give them proper administration just for alcoholics, I could see a reason for it. I truthfully believe that $150,000 for just administration would be but a drop in the bucket and a great waste. I know that today, and I feel sure that the gentleman from Berks will agree, good and effective work is being done by Alcoholics Anonymous. I understand this is entirely a volunteer service.

There is one thing I would like to say to elaborate on the fact that it is a disease; I understand that Alcohol Anonymous is made up, or composed mostly of converts from alcoholism. They have a different view point than a doctor or other individuals would have. They know how to treat the individual who is suffering from this so-called disease, and I do not believe that hospitals or governmental agencies are equipped to take care of that kind of disease. I believe it has to be taken care of as it is today, by volunteer service. I think it is more effective, that is, the type of volunteer service that they have, and it seems to be working in our state. I do not have any available figures at this time but I do not believe that alcoholism is growing in the state of Pennsylvania. It may be, but I do not believe that it is.

I honestly feel if we are going to do a decent job I would advocate, rather than amending this bill, that the gentleman introduce an entirely new bill to be ear-marked for that purpose alone, and to make it a substantial sum so that it can be done properly rather than a mere pittance of $150,000 which will go only for administration.

The gentleman spoke of a Mrs. Snyder, whom I do not know; but I have been advised she is doing a very excellent job in working as almost an individual, although she is a government employe, with the volunteer groups. It seems to be working now. I think it will work just as well in the future, until at least a substantial sum of money is available so that we can put clinics, get the men, get the women who have been at it and can work with it and devote all the money just to the cure of this terrible disease.

I would ask that the Members of this House vote this amendment down at this time.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I welcome into the circuit of the scientific elect the eminent diagnostician from Philadelphia, the Majority Leader.

I represent a different school of thought. My school holds that the disease of alcoholism falls generally into two phases, mental and physiological. For the habitual drunkard, who is a mental case, who drinks for companionship, for mental stimulation and just for the heck of it, nothing can be done in scientific clinics. That is the fellow you will have to reach by means of your social contacts, that is where Alcoholics Anonymous come in.

The physiological sufferer is a medical case. His disease is not in his head; it is in his stomach, it is in his physical system, and he is the man that Alcoholics Anonymous cannot cure.

Now it is not proposed and I had not understood that the initial appropriation was to be used for anything else than the establishment of a pilot plant. A one-bed or a two-bed clinic to elaborate the method and the technique for the medical cure, not the mental cure—the medical cure of the alcoholic addict. And without elaborating the proper technique, without a period of experimentation it would be sheer folly for this House, although I understand we have discovered lapses that added to our resources will total somewhere between fourteen and eighteen million, a fact the Majority Leader carefully concealed from me while I was urging my pleas on the House, but there is money outside of the purview of the legislative budget for this $150,000 to be used in establishing an experimental technique, a clinic, on a small basis for the purpose of perfecting the line of scientific cure.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I certainly do not claim to be any authority on the subject of alcoholism. But I would like to answer a few of the statements made by the gentleman across the hall who is an expert on the subject, Mr. Smith.

He suggests that I withdraw this amendment and introduce a separate bill asking for a very sizeable appropriation. I must respectfully decline that course of activity. I think if our Secretary of Health, Dr. Teague, makes a request for $150,000, he certainly knows that that money can be well spent, otherwise he would not have come in and made such a request.

Furthermore, on the subject of introducing this as a separate bill, as I recall the law of Pennsylvania the Governor may veto any specific items in the general appropriation bill that he desires. If the Secretary of Health cannot persuade the Governor that this money can be well spent then the Governor would have the right to veto this item just as he would a separate bill or an item embodied in a separate bill.

Other states have actually done something about this problem. The District of Columbia has appropriated $100,000 for this purpose, Virginia $200,000, Wisconsin $200,000, Connecticut $300,000 and Mississippi $750,000. We are not doing something new here; we are just trying to catch up with a few other states which are a little more enlightened than we are. Certainly nobody is going to miss this $150,000 which we would appropriate by adopting this amendment—nobody is going to miss it except those poor souls who need this treatment.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I hesitate to take up the time of the House any longer, but after the Minority Leader so learnedly discussed the bill, I am afraid I might have to yield the honorary title he gave me, of Doctor, and I would like the Members of the House to consider in the future calling Mr. Andrews, Doctor Andrews.

Regardless of all that the Minority Leader has said and also the gentleman from Berks, I still say that this bill should be passed as it is. That would avoid a reprint job. Also if the Members of this House want this amendment they can incorporate it and pass it as a separate bill. I do not believe the appropriation bill should be amended in this way. I think it is a good bill and should be passed as it is. I still make that suggestion, and I ask the Members of the House to vote this amendment down.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I will not take up much more of the time of the House either, but the gentlemen still persists that it should be a separate bill.

I would like to remind you that such a bill would go into the Appropriations Committee which is the very Committee which has deleted this $150,000 item. You know from the experience we have had during this session as well as prior sessions that no Committee ever is discharged from the consideration of any bill. So if you want this thing in the appropriation bill you will have to do it today, in my opinion. You will have to vote for it, and if you do not vote for it you are going to kill the whole appropriation of $150,000 for this purpose.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The SPEAKER declared the nays appear to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, 73 Members voting in the affirmative and 83 in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the amendment was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 633, as follows:

An Act to amend Sections 3 and 4 of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. McMillen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. McMillen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McMILLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman first of all whether I am substantially correct in my understanding of this bill. I understand that it provides that the County Boards of Assistance will furnish to additional group of organizations a list of those employables among the people receiving assistance in that county. Is that substantially correct?

Mr. McMILLEN. That is.

Mr. SEYLER. Those additional organizations are non-profit, cemetery associations, fire companies, public libraries and all other similar organizations supported in whole or in part by public subscriptions, donations or gifts.

Now I would call the attention of the gentleman to page 3 of the bill and that part of the provision I have just read beginning on line 11, "all other similar organizations supported in whole or in part by public subscriptions, donations or gifts." I would like to know whether that means that the County Board of Assistance would furnish this list to all non-profit associations which receive public subscriptions, donations or gifts?

Mr. McMILLEN. Well that would naturally be true if they live in part or in whole from that type of operation.

Mr. SEYLER. Can the gentleman tell me how many non-profit associations there are in the state of Pennsylvania?

Mr. McMILLEN. I do not know. I did not attempt to find out.

Mr. SEYLER. Can the gentleman give me an estimate?

Mr. McMILLEN. No sir, I did not attempt to find any figures on it.

Mr. SEYLER. Would the gentleman agree that most of our club organizations for example are non-profit organizations?

Mr. McMILLEN. If they are not operated entirely for the benefit of the public. If they are operated entirely for the membership.

Mr. SEYLER. In what part of the bill Mr. Speaker, does this say that they must be organizations devoted to the service of the public?

Mr. McMILLEN. What else could you imply from the very wording of the act and from the description within it?

Mr. SEYLER. I ask the gentleman to direct his attention to lines 10, 11 and 12. It mentions certain non-profit associations, and then it says "all other similar organizations."

Mr. McMILLEN. Well, the word similar itself goes back to the description just previous to it.

Mr. SEYLER. Will the gentleman tell me, Mr. Speaker, just what the limitation is here? In other words which ones among all of the non-profit associations in Pennsylvania are included in this list, and which ones are excluded?

Mr. McMILLEN. I have no definite idea of any particular ones the gentleman is referring and trying to bring into this discussion. The gentleman pointed out clubs as non-profit organizations. But I point out that clubs are mainly for the benefit of the organization or the members within that organization. It is not a semi-public and for-the-public benefit organization.

Mr. SEYLER. I ask the gentleman again, Mr. Speaker, will he point out to me and the Members anything in this bill of his which limits the list to those non-profit organizations which perform a service to the public?

Mr. McMILLEN. I find nothing making that limitation in the bill. I think if an organization such as the V.F.W., the American Legion or organizations of that nature are maintaining a public recreation park as they do in many areas, then I think they would be eligible to use these people on public assistance who are able to work, because that is essentially a benefit for the public. The public is invited to use it, and becomes a part of that use.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. Speaker, I understand and respect the gentleman's opinion, but I would ask him whether that is merely his opinion or whether there is some provision in the bill which limits it to that list?

Mr. McMILLEN. I think the community will take care of that in itself.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe the community is consulted ordinarily in such a matter. That is left to the construction of the law, and we would expect it to be in the law. I ask the gentleman once more whether there is any limitation in the bill which limits it to the organizations which in his opinion would be eligible?

Mr. McMILLEN. If the gentleman wants to draw that line, perhaps he can with his reasoning reach that conclusion. On my part I do not expect to attempt to amend the bill, I think it is perfectly clear the way it is, as to what the intent and the purpose is. The preamble to the bill itself will control that.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

My primary objection to this bill is that it is drawn in such a manner that to me at least it implies that the County Board of Assistance of each county would be ordered by this bill to furnish a list of these employables on public assistance to every non-profit organization which receives in whole or in part any subscription, donation or gift from the public. That obviously is a large list; I, just like the sponsor, do not have any knowledge of what the exact number is. But I do not know that in my own county there are probably hundreds or perhaps thousands of these non-profit organizations.

In the second place I would point out that these employables, if they can be used by any non-profit organization, could be used by any organization which performs no public service; might even be used to replace people who are now working for pay. In other words I see no objections if this does apply to clubs, little theatres, symphony concert associations, civic opera associations—because you have heard of one of those that is non-profit today—why they could not be used for painting, for carpentering or janitorial service, perhaps even for bartenders, I do not know, but at any rate the bill as it stands contains no limitation. It says "all similar organizations," which I think means all non-profit organizations which receive gifts or subscriptions from the public. For that reason in its present form and with the statement that the sponsor will be unwilling to amend it in order to provide some limitations, I do not believe it is a very good bill to vote for.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. McMillen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. McMillen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McMILLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, who decides the people that are physically fit?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, you mean in the county, or who decides the people who will be assigned out on these jobs?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, right.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, if there is any question, that goes to a medical doctor to decide. Generally the people who are on public rolls, if they plead illness in their application they are periodically examined by medical doctors to determine their fitness for employment.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, can that be done by their own local physician?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, that is entirely at the discretion of the Public Assistance Board. They can assign him to a doctor and that is as I think it should be.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman consider old age pension or old age assistance as those on relief?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, this bill and no other public assistance act considers that in such case. Once they pass 65 years of age they go on what is known as the old age assistance or pension. Then they are no longer considered employable.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I further ask the gentleman if it is not true under the old age assistance act in Pennsylvania providing you own a home that is charged against you in an old age assistance case.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I am not so sure that I understand the question but I believe what you mean is that if someone past 65 years of age who owns a little home applies for assistance, then that is not applied against the property.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I want to know if it is not applied.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, that is your question.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, that is right.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, well I cannot answer that definitely. I do know that those under 65 years of age have a judgment entered against them. I cannot answer your question.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether he does not know that it is the practice of the Department of Public Assistance in the case of an old couple or an old person receiving old age assistance and has a home, that that is definitely charged against the amount of money that they received.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, where in this bill do you find that in substance, that we can make that a point of argument on this particular bill?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I might say that under this particular bill I find no difference in making the person that is receiving public assistance work for that assistance if they are physically able, than I do those on old age assistance who are physically able.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, well that is taken care of in your previous part of the bill. It is a foregone conclusion and is also a practice and a policy that those beyond 65 years of age are just not eligible and because they are not, they cannot be assigned out. There is no way you can ask them to go to work even though they are being kept with public assistance money. You just cannot do it. So that does not enter into this argument at all.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman agree that there are cases of old age assistance that do do some menial work.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, not that they are assigned to by the Department of Public Assistance. It is absolutely unlawful to be assigned out that way.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, this particular bill would not permit them to be assigned out?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, absolutely not, although in many cases they would be eligible, I mean would be able to do a fairly decent day's work and would perhaps be better off because of a little bit of work, but you just cannot assign them.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, but under this particular bill they will not be able to be assigned?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, that is right.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

I still think it is not good legislation.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I likewise desire to interrogate the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. McMillen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. McMillen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, yes sir I shall.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, am I to understand that under this bill if a Veteran's organization in my home town takes up by public subscription a certain amount of money and buys an ambulance that from that time on they are permitted to call upon the board and have people work for them off the relief rolls. Is that what this bill will do?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, in the gentleman's case, I presume they could be called upon to assist in taking care of that ambulance. I do not think they could be assigned as a driver or anything like that, because of the responsibility that your organization would have.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, well now what work could they be assigned to do for this organization. Where in this bill is there any limitation placed upon the work that they can be called upon to perform for that organization.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, well I think that is limited entirely by the nature of the work that they are doing. If it is of a public nature and is in the public interest.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, does this bill in any portion of it say that they can be used in the performance of duties in connection with a public function? Is there anything in this bill at all which limits the type of work that they can be called upon to do?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I think not. And why should there be?

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, why should there be.

Mr. McMILLEN. That is right.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Well now just as I say, if an organization in our community by public subscription buys an ambulance they become eligible then to receive these helpers. What would stop them from asking for help as a janitor, as a waitress, to clean the fan, to do any kind of work around that club. There is no limitation in this bill whatever. And as long as they have the men they will have them do anything they want them to do.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, if you are talking in terms of the club and the club property which is used entirely for the benefit of the club members then they certainly could not be assigned. A fire company, for instance, a volunteer fire company in your community can ask for the assignment of some of these individuals. They can keep up the fire, they can polish equipment, they could help to build walks, or maintain the property because the property of a volunteer fire department is essentially the property of the community. That is being done right in my own community.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, now then the point I make is, where in this bill, either implied or specifically expressed is there such a limitation?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, it says so very specifically in here.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, where?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, it says similar organizations supported in whole or in part by public subscriptions, donations or gifts. You cannot take any other application out of the thing.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, where is the limitation as to the type of work that they can do?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, why should there be any limitation? As long as it is in the public interest, and they are returning something for what they are getting, why should there be any? We have gone along too long thinking that we have to take care of a lot of people and in return they do not have to give anything back to the community for that help.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, well now then, why not, as has been suggested, amend your bill so that the service these men are called upon to perform, is one which will benefit the public? There is no limitation in your bill to that effect.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, it is specifically implied there that neither you, nor any other individual in your community can go and ask for one of these lists of men able to work—the public assistance board would not have to give it to you; you must specify on your application what you are going to do, where they are going to be used and the hours they will work. It is all very specifically stated. You must provide compensation coverage. There is no way that this thing can be abused as long as you have honest people administering your public assistance and just as honest people going in and asking for the list.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I see. How under the bill is the rate of pay determined, or will there be any pay for the service?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, it is usually figured on the prevailing rate of common laborers in the particular area. In my own area for instance, we figure at the rate of 70 cents an hour. Now that is not an enormous pay for an hour, I will admit, but if it does not suit the individual who is getting public assistance to work at the rate of 70 cents an hour, and they are physically able to work, there is not a thing in the world to keep them from saying "I will not be out to work tomorrow. I am going out and get myself a job."

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, now all of these things, of course, are to be taken care of in some manner or other by an implied understanding all people are going to have. It does not state that specifically in the bill but all of these things will be taken care of through an implication on the part of somebody, somewhere, sometime.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I think we can depend entirely on the administration of public assistance to take care of it.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I further interrogate the gentleman?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. McMillen permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, let us be fair about this thing.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I intend to be fair, I just want to ask the gentleman a few questions. Does the gentleman feel that a borough, a municipality is a non-profit organization?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, a borough?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, that is right.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, you mean the borough as operated by the borough council?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, that is right.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, well it certainly is in the public interest, or it should be.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, but it is a non-profit organization.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, oh, I don't know. I think you get a lot of profit out of the operation of a borough. You get all of your public utilities, that is, all the public services that are rendered. I think there is some profit to it.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, do you think that a school district is a profitable organization?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, well I send my children to school and expect them to get an education out of it. Of course, it is an indirect profit.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, could you employ these people to janitor around a school?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, there is nothing that can keep you from it.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, could use them on the borough streets to work?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

I want to say again that I feel that this particular bill will put more people on relief in order to get a job. We have got an awful lot of people that are now staying off the relief rolls due to the fact that they can get jobs in these municipalities in school as janitors and street men and if you close the avenue and use people now on relief, these other people are just going to have to go on relief because I know our borough council back home hires an awful lot of that particular type of people. In other words, that keeps them off of relief. If you pass such legislation you are going to force them on the relief rolls in order to get a job to pay for the food they eat.

We started out with about 22 men. Today we have 2. The other 20 have gone out and gotten themselves a job. The very reverse happens to what the gentleman from Westmoreland states. He and I discussed this previous to the session and he privately, maybe I should not tell this, but he privately agrees with the principle of putting people who are able to work, to work.

We had a little difference of opinion on this matter of pay. The fact remains that if a man is drawing more than $28 a week, in my district, at the rate of 70 cents an hour, he work only 40 hours, and then the rest of it is gravy as far as effort on the part of the recipient is concerned. The man who is drawing less than $28 per week works only the required number of hours to work out his assistance grants.

What could be fairer than that. We have gone soft on this thing of handing money to people. Why in the world should the Legislature come down here every two years and take out of the taxpayer's pocket money to keep in idleness, in indolence, in filth, in idolatry and everything else that goes with laziness and shiftlessness, and then not require them to do something in return for the community.

In public assistance alone we have come to the place where we are subsidizing illegitimacy. It has become profitable for an unwed woman to have more children. She can get a greater increase in her relief draft. I could go on and make a speech on this thing if somebody wants to prod me into it.

If the gentleman from Westmoreland wants to raise the issue, we can certainly go on with the discussion. Somewhere and somehow we have got to come to grips with this problem. Why should we keep people on public assistance who are absolutely able and capable of doing a day's work, provide them with money for shelter, food, even automobiles, television, telephones and all the things that go with luxury.

To me those things are simply the result of a person's individual labor. I make no apology for this bill. I make no apology to any man who would have to go to work because of this bill.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say a couple more words so that we do not lose sight of the issue in this bill.

I have no quarrel to pick when we ask men on relief rolls to go to work for the school board, for a borough, for a public library, or for any public institution; but when we take it down to the point where they submit names to private clubs and to unincorporated associations the field is so broad that I do have objections. So long as it is limited to public work, I am perfectly satisfied, but this bill goes far beyond that. It allows every club that has gone out and asked for a donation for some public service, to use men from the public relief rolls, and I object to that sort of a bill.

Mr. PAUL F. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask Mr. McMillen, sponsor of this bill, just one or two questions.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. McMillen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McMILLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. PAUL F. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I heard the sponsor of the bill say in the course of his remarks that those persons referred for employment were covered under the Workmen's Compensation Act. I do not find that in the bill.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, may I point out that before these men are assigned by the Department of Public Assistance Board you must submit—I as president of the school board, for instance in my district had to submit a certified copy of the coverage which we carry on all of our school employees. It is a matter that must be cleared before you can receive an assignment of workers. That is now a very definite part of the program.

Mr. PAUL F. JONES. Mr. Speaker, this question, please, is it not a fact that people employed under your system would be regarded as casual employees rather than permanent employees?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, it is very definitely covered under your compensation coverage.

Mr. PAUL F. JONES. Mr. Speaker, well now I do not have your answer. Are they classified as permanent or casual employees?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, it does not make any difference.

Mr. PAUL F. JONES. Mr. Speaker, oh yes, it does make a difference.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, that is according to our insurance carrier. We took that up with him and they were definitely covered.

Mr. PAUL F. JONES. Now is it not true, Mr. Speaker, that under the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 as amended, these individuals would be classified as casual employees, and therefore, not within the purview of the Workmen's Compensation Act?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, we consider them permanent employees until they themselves take themselves off our rolls by getting a job. When they are assigned to us, I assure you we will find enough work to keep them going on a permanent basis and they are considered as permanent employees until they automatically take themselves off our rolls.

Mr. PAUL F. JONES. Mr. Speaker, is there anything in the bill that limits the type of employment that these people will be called upon to perform?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, not necessarily. This bill is on the record now. The only thing that is being changed adding this broader employment base.

Mr. PAUL F. JONES. Mr. Speaker, my question relates solely to the feature of hazardous employment, where they may assume a risk and there might be a death follow as a result.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, if I hire a man to work for me in a hazardous occupation, where there is risk of death or anything occurs while in my employ, I must have him covered regardless.

Mr. PAUL F. JONES. Mr. Speaker, then it is your view that these employees would be considered permanent employees and covered under the Workmen's Compensation Act?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, we were assured by our compensation carrier, which happens to be the State Workmen's Fund, that we were covered and all these men were covered.

Mr. PAUL F. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

Under that explanation it is my view that if that is the case, there is no question at all that people who are now working will be replaced by people taken from the relief rolls, which only means that they are going to be out of jobs. With the further observation that under this bill, you are going to place every person in the state who is on relief at the mercy of the investigators or the social worker who might have his case in charge. I believe it is going to open up the door for a lot of abuses and a lot of people are going to be taken advantage of.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I did not intend to say much about this bill but I cannot let that last remark of the gentleman from Westmoreland pass to the effect that this will put people on relief.

I want to recite for the benefit of the people of this House a few facts.

The act of 1939 has been on the books for a long time. Never much was done about it. I tried on several occasions to have orders put out over the Commonwealth that there should be more of an effort made to put eligible employables to work in this Commonwealth, for the very reason that if you put them to work out in the public's eye they are going to go out and get themselves a job. If they do not want to go out and get a job, then they are going to be returning to the public some good for the money they are getting for their public keep.

In my own district, I just completed, or am completing now, a new sixteen room school building. We have saved approximately $10,000 by taking these people on public assistance and putting them to work on that building.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LOVETT. May I ask the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson to explain this bill.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, the bill merely raises the fees for conducting a pharmacy from two to five dollars. The purpose of the bill being to make the regulation of pharmacies self supporting. It raises the fee from two to five dollars to make investigation of pharmacies and so forth self-supporting.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask if this is sort of a companion bill to House Bill 1124 on page 22?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would not say that it is a companion bill. They both happen to be on the calendar at the same time. The bill on page 22, as I understand, is a bill to deny one the right to operate a self-service pharmacy owing to the possibility of a person being able to buy poisonous drugs and so forth without control by someone in charge.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, is the bill sponsored by the same source or from the same Department? Is the Department interested in these particular bills?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I cannot speak for the bill introduced by the gentleman from Pike, Mr. Metz, but I can say that the bill that I have introduced raising the fees is a bill in which the Department is interested.

Mr. LOVETT. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I do feel that they are somewhat companion bills and while I have no objection to this particular bill when we come to House Bill 1124 on page 22, I would then ask that I have the right to interrogate the gentleman.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the sponsor of this bill to explain the purpose of the amendments the bill makes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Mazza, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAZZA. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SEYLER. I repeat the request, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman explain the purpose of the changes the amendments make.

Mr. MAZZA. Mr. Speaker, this bill, House Bill 1082, amends the real estate tax law of 1947 by adding one more year redemption to the present one year in the law. What we are confronted with in this 1947 real estate Act is that so many people have become delinquent in their taxes during this period and are unable to redeem their property within a period of one year and this amendment makes it a two year period.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

An Act to provide for liens for the cost of hospital care and treatment of persons wilfully or negligently injured the liens to exist on rights of action and on counterclaims and on verdicts and judgments recovered as the result of such injuries and on moneys paid in settlement of such actions and counterclaims and providing rights of action to recover such liens if not paid The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The Commonwealth any political subdivision of the Commonwealth and any corporation or association maintaining a hospital in this State in which medical and surgical services are rendered to the public shall have a lien upon any and all rights of action and counterclaims which any person admitted to any such hospital for care and treatment of personal injuries wilfully or negligently inflicted shall have against any other person firm or corporation on account of such injuries Provided That such lien shall be effective against only that portion of funds recovered or paid on settlement remaining after the payment of reasonable attorneys fees and court costs incurred in the prosecution of the said rights of action and counterclaims The extent of such lien shall be the amount of the reasonable charges of such hospital for the care and treatment of such injured person but the per diem rate for room and board included in such charges shall not exceed the rate for room and board in the public ward of such hospital

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, this bill involves what would seem to be a change in public policy. It makes the hospital, in the case of anyone there as the result of negligence of another, a preferred creditor with only one exception—the lawyers, I see, would come in for their fees, that is the way I read the bill, ahead of the hospital.

I recognize the inevitability of the decision in view of the fact that the bill emerged from the fastness of the Judiciary Committee. Whether a hospital should be given prior claims as against the payments of debts of an estate as set forth in the Decedents State Law is a broad question. I question whether or not it is not inadvisable to make this sort of a change, whether the law and other measures on the books are not in line with a sounder public policy than we have here. Without exception at all the hospital comes in first, even though a family might be starving somewhere.

Mr. KENT. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to argue the point as to whether this bill is changing policy or not, but I believe the Minority Leader has left the matter a little confused because this bill does not in the first instance give the hospital the position of being a preferred creditor.

It is a preferred creditor in the event the person who has been injured and who has received the services of that hospital, is required to take the step of starting a law suit to recover damages and then in that event only the hospital can file its lien and be sure that they are paid for the services they have rendered to that person, should he receive a judgment for the damages he has suffered.

I think if it is changing the policy it is changing it for the good. It seems to me that when hospitals come down to the Legislature at every session, and we find them in the shape that they have to ask for increased appropriations and state aid in every session, it is time that something be done to give them some relief and some aid in collecting bona fide claims that they have against one-time patients who have recovered money which is rightfully due and owing to the hospital. I think it will aid all of the hospitals in the Commonwealth to meet the financial problems they find themselves in today and very seriously are faced with.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, might I interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Kent?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Kent, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KENT. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, does the hospital come in ahead of the doctor?

Mr. KENT. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry, I did not understand the gentleman.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, would the hospital come in ahead of the doctor?

Mr. KENT. Mr. Speaker, at what stage?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, after the—that is a good question. After the doctor came into the hospital?

Mr. KENT. Mr. Speaker, the only reply I can make is that if it becomes necessary for the person who has received the treatment, to start a lawsuit against the person who caused the injury, then if the hospital files its lien, the hospital will come in ahead of the doctor, that is true.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, would the hospital come in ahead of the corner store grocer?

Mr. KENT. Mr. Speaker, yes.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, would it come in ahead of the man who sold shoes?

Mr. KENT. Mr. Speaker, yes.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I simply want to repeat that the gentleman from Crawford in explaining the bill said just exactly what I said. I only said it in a different way.

I urge the point that irrespective of whether the person injured recovers as a result of a voluntary settlement or as a result of legal action there are other interests that in many instances have as pressing a human claim upon the money recovered as the hospitals possibly can have. And seriously to put the attorney's fees ahead of the doctor, ahead of the corner store grocer, ahead of the man who sells shoes, ahead of the ailing grandmother, ahead of the parents that may be on relief is against sound public policy.

Mr. KENT. Mr. Speaker, only one word in reply to that. I would like to clarify the idea that the gentleman from Cambria has left as to the hospital coming ahead of the shoemaker, and the grocery store operator.

It is true that the hospital will come ahead of them, but we must remember this one thing, that when this fund is created the amount of the fund is fully dependent on the hospital bill for its services, and materials furnished are taken into consideration in arriving at that amount. In other words, sometime during that lawsuit the hospital bill will be introduced in evidence and the judgment will be based on that amount, and therefore, I cannot see why any one else should have any preferential claim above the hospital on that fund.

So far as the attorney's fees are concerned, I think that was justified in Committee meeting when the bill was amended. As originally introduced it did not contain that feature. However, the attorneys create the fund and submit and render their services and that is why it was put in. I might say that some very good support for that amendment came from the Democratic side of the House.

Mr. ANDREWS. I would like to ask whether the Democratic support came from the legal limbs of the Democratic party or from the militant laity.

Mr. KENT. Mr. Speaker, I would leave that to the supposition of the Minority Leader.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, under this bill, as has been pointed out, if the person is injured and is required to file suit in order to recover damages, the hospital can enter a claim and get a lien on that amount. However, if the man does not file a suit, and settles his claim out of court, then of course there is no lien and there is no priority on the part of the hospital, thereby leading the individual into a position where he can actually get perhaps more costs or more cash, you might say, by settling out of court and avoiding a hospital bill than he will get if he goes into court. Because if he goes into court a great portion of his judgment will have a lien filed against it. If he settles it out of court, there is no lien against it. So there will be a tendency to permit insurance companies to settle for smaller allowance just to keep this lien of the hospital bill from attaching the money that the man is going to receive. That is number one.

Number two, we set up in our decedents laws a provision of priority covering the undertaker's bill, for example, in the case of a death. Now we will suppose that the man is injured and goes to the hospital and finally dies. Under our laws today the undertaker's bill is the first thing to be paid. But here we find that we are putting a claim upon that judgment so that the undertaker cannot be given the priority which our law already gives him. We are going to have sort of a conflict in that particular setup.

Then, as Mr. Andrews has pointed out, the verdict takes in a number of considerations. First of all, the man loses his wages; that is taken into account when the jury arrives at the verdict. If you have a doctor bill, that is taken into account when the verdict is arrived at. His loss of wages is taken into account when the verdict is arrived at. We come sometimes to a total amount which is insufficient to cover all these items, because perhaps the jury is not entirely satisfied of the guilt of the other party. And then you have a portion of the amount that was allowed for wages being given to the hospital. And the corner grocer, who has supplied the milk, who has supplied the bread and potatoes to keep the man's family living is left holding the bag while the hospital, which receives state aid and is recompensed to a certain extent, gets the full amount.

I think this is an unfair advantage given to hospitals over the other creditors who are entitled to equal consideration in any verdict arrived at after a jury trial.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I will only take a moment to come to the defense of the legal profession of Pennsylvania which has been attacked by the Minority floor leader this afternoon, and to consider carefully his remarks about certain sections of this bill which Mr. Kent says was supported by the Democratic faction in the Judiciary Committee.

If you analyze Mr. Andrew's remarks carefully you are apt to come to the conclusion that we lawyers are trying to steal the shoes off the babies, off injured people and bread off the shelves of the merchants who are keeping the family alive. That is a very incorrect conclusion and I would like to straighten it out.

I might point out to my good friend, Mr. Andrews, that an injured person, if he is smart enough to get himself a good lawyer, is very apt to get enough money in settlement of his claim or verdict so that all his worries would disappear; there would be enough money to pay everybody, the hospital, the butcher, the baker, the shoemaker, there would not be any question of priority of liens or anything else; everybody would be paid. But, of course, in order to get that kind of a lawyer you have to agree to pay him, because he might be a busy man and have other things to do if he is not going to get paid. Many of these accident cases which wind up in court are taken on a purely contingent basis. The injured party may not have a nickel, but some lawyer will say he will take the case, and if he wins he will take a certain percentage as his pay. If he loses he gets nothing; he has devoted his time, his talents and everything else, maybe weeks of time have been spent on it and he gets nothing. If that lawyer is not entitled to receive his fee before other creditors, including the hospital's share in it, then I think I am in the wrong profession.

I know that Mr. Andrews has a high respect for members of the legal profession, but once in a while he exhibits a slightly warped attitude. That may be due to his long experience with newspaper men, I do not know. I never had the pleasure of being a newspaper man. Perhaps if I did I would feel less touchy about the legal profession.

I hope Mr. Andrews is now well aware of the fact that we lawyers are very jealous of our rights, prerogatives and privileges, and that we recognize our responsibility to the people who are injured.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

have been compelled to serve had he not been paroled and he shall be given no credit for the time at liberty on parole. The board may in its discretion reparole whenever in its opinion the best interests of the prisoner justify or require his release on parole and it does not appear that the interests of the Commonwealth will be injured thereby. If a new sentence is imposed upon him to be served in the same institution from which paroled then the service of the balance of said term originally imposed shall precede the commencement of the new term imposed for the latter crime. The period of time for which the parole violator is required to serve shall be computed from and begin on the date that he is taken into custody to be returned to the institution as a parole violator.

(b) Technical Violaors Any parolee under the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Board of Parole released from any penal institution in the Commonwealth who during the period of parole violates the terms and conditions of his parole other than by the commission of a new crime of which he is convicted or found guilty by a judge or jury or to which he pleads guilty or nolle contendere in a court of record may be recommitted after hearing before the board to the institution from which he was paroled or to any other institution to which legally transferred as a parole violator. If he is so recommitted he shall be given credit for the time served on parole in good standing but with no credit for delinquent time and may be reentered to serve the remainder of his original sentence or sentences. Said remainder shall be computed by the board from the time his delinquent conduct occurred for the period of the maximum sentence imposed by the court without commutation for the period the parolee was delinquent on parole and he shall be required to serve such remainder so computed from the date he is taken into custody on the warrant of the board. Such prisoner shall be subject to reparole by the board whenever in its opinion the best interests of the prisoner justify or require his being repared and it does not appear that the interests of the Commonwealth will be injured thereby.

Section 5 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 6 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. FRANCIS E. REINBERGER, Pastor, Trinity Lutheran Church, Camp Hill, Pennsylvania, offered the following prayer:

O Thou, Whose wisdom is over all, and in all and through all, make us wise to meet life's demands. Daily the doors of opportunity are opened before us; give us the wisdom to see and to enter them. Daily there are hard decisions to make; help us to see the issues clearly and to do what You would do if You were acting in our place.

Guard us from folly, Lord, but make us patient, if need be, with the folly of those about us. So let us serve Thee and Thy people with all we have to Thy honor and glory. Amen.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have been requested by Chairmen of various committees for a very brief recess for committee meetings, to be held in the Conference Room at the rear of the Senate Chamber, and if it meets with the approval of the gentlemen of the Senate, I would like to suggest that we take about a fifteen minute recess. I will put it in the form of a motion, and ask the Chairmen if they will meet in the following order: Committee on Corporations, Committee on Highways, Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations, Committee on Military Affairs.

RECESS

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for fifteen minutes, to permit meetings of the various committees.

Mr. SCARLETT. Mr. President, I second the motion. The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I want to apologize to the gentlemen of the Senate for the delay in the continuation of today's Session. I want to assure them it is because of circumstances entirely beyond our control, and again this is not only an apology for the delay up to this point, but it is an anticipatory apology for the delay to follow.

Mr. President, I must ask the gentlemen to bear with us, and ask for a recess for ten minutes to permit a Caucus of the Republican Senate, in the Conference Room, to the rear of the Senate Chamber.

RECESS

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for ten minutes, to permit a Republican Caucus.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I second the motion. The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, will state his question of personal privilege.

CONGRATULATIONS TO SENATOR KEPHART

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, sometime ago the Nation was very deeply interested in a speech that was afforded complete radio and television coverage. It hit the highest rating of any on the Hooper Rating System, when a very distinguished American citizen made the recurring remark that, "Old Soldiers Never Die, They Simply Fade Away." Here in the Senate of Pennsylvania, it was here, before I came to the Senate and it is still carrying on, "Old Senators Never Die, They Simply Fade Away." That has become the Senatorial hymn and like all good universities, we not only have a hymn, but we have a marching song and our marching song is, "Oh Careless Love."

Mr. President, it is with mingled emotions that those of us who have had the privilege of being united in holy wedlock for these long many years welcome into the fold one of the most distinguished Senators of the City of Brotherly Love, the chorister of our marching song, "Oh Careless Love," the author and proponent of, "Oh Careless Love," the gentleman who has entertained us a good many times. Last Monday night when we heard the gentleman sing it at the Senate Dinner, little did we realize that the choking sound caused by the rendition of that famous marching song was because it was a swan song.

Mr. President, we were doubly pleased to read the announcement in the paper but we were sorry that we were not invited to attend the nuptial affair, and we were sorry that we had to resort to Joe Miller's paper to find it out, but on behalf of the Senate of Pennsylvania, we want to offer to Senator Kephart our very sincere congratulations on his marriage last Saturday.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Philadelphia, and suggests he sing at least two stanzas.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I desire to thank the gentleman from Allegheny for his kind remarks, and to inform him that I got my wedding present from the Lieutenant-Governor on Monday night.

The PRESIDENT. I infer that one of the important matters in the Caucus was to confirm the announcement of the wedding of Senator Kephart.

HOUSE RESOLUTION REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE AND LAID ON THE TABLE

Mr. MAHANY from the Committee on Agriculture, to which was referred on May 2, 1951, the following resolution from the House of Representatives reported the same with amendments as follows, viz:

SCHOOL OF VETERINARY MEDICINE ESTABLISHED AT PENNSYLVANIA STATE COLLEGE

In the House of Representatives, April 17, 1951.

Whereas, There are now on Pennsylvania farms dairy animals, poultry and general livestock with in the aggregate more than $412,000,000, producing approximately 75 per cent of the total annual income of Pennsylvania agriculture or in monetary terms about $575,000,000, a year; and

Whereas, The greatest economic losses to the dairy, poultry and general livestock industry are occasioned by the inroads of animal diseases and parasites; and

Whereas, Existing facilities for training persons qualified for the practice of veterinary medicine within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are inadequate to meet the existing and still growing need for doctors of veterinary medicine; and

Whereas, The Pennsylvania State College by virtue of its scientific personnel; its resources for research; its close working relationship with dairy, poultry and general livestock raisers throughout the State and its physical location is the appropriate institution to develop the needed facilities; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That the members of the General Assembly hereby request the Board of Trustees of the Pennsylvania State College to authorize the establishment of a school of Veterinary Medicine at the Pennsylvania State College and at the earliest possible time to erect such buildings; employ such personnel and establish such programs of research and instruction as in their judgment are requisite to the proper maintenance and operation of such a school of veterinary medicine; and be it further

Resolved, That the members of the General Assembly hereby pledge their support in obtaining the funds required to construct and to equip essential research, instructional, clinical, and administrative buildings for a School of Veterinary Medicine at the Pennsylvania State College, and for the operation and maintenance of the proposed School of Veterinary Medicine; it being understood, however, that funds cannot be appropriated for such buildings and their maintenance at the 1951 Session of the General Assembly; and be it further

Resolved, That it is the understanding and intention of the members of the General Assembly that funds ultimately appropriated for the construction and equipment of such buildings, and for the operation and maintenance of such a School of Veterinary Medicine shall be in addition to the amount appropriated at that time for the general operation and maintenance of the Pennsylvania State College as then constituted; and be it further

Resolved, That the trustees of the Pennsylvania State College be requested to prepare and to present to the members of the 1953 Session of the General Assembly specific and detailed information concerning the nature and estimated cost of requisite buildings and equipment, and also an estimate of the annual expense involved in the operation and maintenance of a School of Veterinary Medicine at the Pennsylvania State College under conditions which, in the judgment of the said trustees, would best meet the reasonable needs of the Commonwealth and its citizens for such veterinary medical service; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of this House send a copy of this resolution to the Board of Trustees of the Pennsylvania State College

Laid over under the Rules.

HOUSE RESOLUTION REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE AND LAID ON THE TABLE

Mr. TOOLE from the Committee on Agriculture, to which was referred resolution offered by Mr. LEADER, on May 21, 1951, reported the same without amendment as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE TO MAKE A REPORT OF ABOUT THE FACTS CONCERNING BRUCELLOSIS CONTROL PROGRAM IN PENNSYLVANIA AND SUGGESTIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS FOR IMPROVING PRESENT METHODS OF CONTROL

In the Senate, May 21, 1951.

Brucellosis (also known as Bangs disease or infectious abortion of cattle) is one of the major hazards of the cattle industry, and its prompt control is of vital importance both to the industry and to the public health.

At the present time, not quite 700,000 cattle—or less than half of the cattle population receiving surveillance under the program of control for bovine tuberculosis—have had inspections for brucellosis; and of this group, fewer than 200,000 belong to accredited herds, i. e. are completely free of the disease. On the other hand, nearly 775,000 animals have not yet been examined: half of these are on the Department of Agriculture's waiting list because its funds and facilities do not permit faster handling of the program. The equally large uncontrolled group of 400,000 cattle suggests the possible need for mandatory inspection.

This Senate recognizes the many difficulties and problems in satisfactorily and speedily carrying out a program of this scope, and type, but it nonetheless is anxious to aid in accelerating the day when all the cattle in this Commonwealth can be declared free of the disease; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the Department of Agriculture is hereby requested to make a report to the Senate before the thirty-first day of January, one thousand nine hundred fifty-three in which it shall set forth:

(1) the facts concerning the brucellosis control program in Pennsylvania; and

(2) the department's suggestions and recommendations for improving present methods of control especially from the standpoint of accelerating the time factor in such control program.

Laid over under the Rules.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, on Monday, June 18th, the following headlines appeared in the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph—"Fine Ready To Slash Aid In Tax Row"

"Governor John S. Fine will carry out his threat to slash welfare, educational and hospital appropriations if the Legislature doesn't provide additional tax revenue, it was reported today.

"The threat to cut appropriations was first made by the Governor when his proposed income tax of $5 per $1,000 of income became stymied in the House.

These same sources said the Governor believes that he is required by law to accept the word of his budget secretary and Revenue Department officials on revenue estimates.

"Budget Secretary Edward B. Logan said the budget would be $111 million out of balance unless additional tax revenue is provided.

"The first appropriation cut would be the $20 million which Fine recommended for teacher salary increase over and above the mandated increases.

"This would mean that teachers would not get any pay increases other than what had been voted by previous Legislatures.

"Next in line for the fiscal paring knife would be a $10 million recommended appropriation for colleges, universities and medical colleges, and the $18,500,000 reserve for civil defense.

"Other deductions would hit departments. A proposed $10 million salary increase for State workers and general hospital appropriations.

"If Fine goes all out in his effort to reduce appropriations, a proposed $1,500,000 for the development of Point Park in Pittsburgh also might be held up."

This in Part is the release credited to the Governor as of that date.

On the same day, a statement was read on the floor of the House by Majority Leader, Mr. Smith, presumably speaking for the Administration, in which he said in effect—that there would be no new or further tax proposals other than the income tax in so far as the House of Representatives was concerned. Coupled with the statement of Governor's Fine's, this places the General Assembly in the unhappy position of being in a permanent and irrevocable stalemate, inasmuch as all tax legislation must originate in the House.

Your Democratic Members of the General Assembly find themselves in the hapless position of being unable to do anything about it unless they discard their position of being adamant in opposition to an income tax and thus capitulating to the unprecedented dictatorial attitude of the Chief Executive in these Legislative Halls.

Let us understand each other in this legislative crisis. There are two defined positions. On one hand, the Governor takes the position that he requires $163 million of new revenues to balance his budget. On the other hand, the twenty Democratic Senators and at least eleven Republican Senators, openly take the position that no new taxes are required to balance the budget. Notwithstanding the many hours spent in caucuses and conferences between the Senate Members of the Republican side and the Governor's Office, there has been no agreement reached upon a compromise or at least upon a definite program for this Session of the Legislature. The working out of a solution has been taken out of the hands of the Minority because at no time has any member of the leadership of this Party been requested to discuss the fiscal problems of the Commonwealth with either the Majority leadership or the Governor's Office. This despite the repeated offers of the Minority leadership in the Senate to submit to questioning and full examination of the Minority's position on fiscal affairs of the Commonwealth.

As Minority Leader, it behooves me at this moment to clear up the atmosphere in so far as the Democratic position is concerned. First, our position is that no new taxes are needed and that all essential services contained in the Governor's budget message can be supplied and maintained in the Commonwealth, especially to the educational, welfare, area re-development and civilian defense services in the Commonwealth. At this time I might say to the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator George Wade, that in forty-three years I have yet to have had to resort to the use of a mouth piece. Nor do I need one when proposing any suggestions on taxation, financing, or any legislation before the Senate of Pennsylvania and, at this time, I disclaim any authority that he would wish upon me, in order to hide his own and some of this fellow colleagues shortcomings in the matter of courage when it comes to presenting to the people the forthright picture of the needs and the revenues available in the Commonwealth.

I do not deny that in 1947 I proposed a State-wide mercantile tax to obviate the so-called necessity of passing increased burdensome and discriminatory taxes of the Duff Administration to the tune of $124 million. However, since these taxes have been placed upon the statute books, it is utterly ridiculous to assume that my position in 1947 can be taken as my position in 1951. When the mercantile tax was offered in 1947, it was proposed as an alternative tax. The only basis for considering this tax at this time would be by the elimination of other taxes placed upon the statute books since then. So much for the obvious attempts by the gentleman from Cumberland to hide his own attitude during this whole Session of the Legislature. Obviously it is a well conceived plan to divert the attention of the people and to aim in my direction the arrows of criticism rightfully aimed at the present Administration.

I stand ready now, as I did in 1947, to discuss as intelligently and as honestly as I know how, the enactment of a broad-base tax. However, as then, so it must now be, coupled with a proposal to eliminate other taxes from the statute books.

The Democratic Party would not then and will not now, agree to increase the tax burden in Pennsylvania when that increase is not substantiated by the budgetary needs of the Commonwealth. In order to present our position again squarely before the people of this Commonwealth, I submit the following analysis taken from the budget messages and from the Financial Statement of the General Fund, as of May 31, 1951.

I wish you would follow me closely in this because I think that this analysis is the crux of the whole problem before us. If I am wrong, then proof contrary to my position will convince me, I am sure, and my colleagues, that something other than what we propose must be done, but unless there is a satisfactory explanation, I cannot assume to be anything but right.

On page 1 of the 15th Biennial Budget, we find under funds available for 1949-1951, $1,253,438,000, and funds available as per the same message for 1951-1953, $1,089,892,000, as against a budget need of $1,253,379,000, leaving a discrepancy, according to the Governor, of $163,487,000. (You will note I am dropping the small change.)

The question immediately arises as to why the difference in the 1949-1951 funds available, total of $835,199,000 as against available funds for the 1951-1953 biennium of $690,026,000, when the only source of revenue being eliminated is the $27 million from the soda pop tax. This short-changing of available funds is carried in the message despite the fact that added to the 1951-1953 revenues is an estimated $44 million increase in corporate net income tax revenues. Of course, this does not take into consideration the estimated additional revenue of $26 million from corporate net income tax to be derived from increased business according to the Governor's own message. Later on I will give the estimates I have worked out which will differ materially than those of the Governor. However, in order to show the discrepancies in this method of computing the budget and showing available and needed funds by the Budget Director, through the Governor's Office, I have here the Financial Statement of General Fund revenues which can only be analyzed by examination. Sufficient to say that in stating the available funds for 1949-1951, the Governor makes the cash balance of June 1, 1949 as an available fund item and yet makes the same cash balance of June 1, 1951 unavailable for the 1951-1953 budget. He fails to carry $74,208,000 of his cash balance of $85,945,000, as shown on May 31, 1951. By this simple trick of addition and omission, the Legislature is supposed to believe that we are short of the Governor's requirement by $163 million.

In my analysis of the revenues taken from figures available to every Member of the Senate and omitting any trickery or special use of mathematical subterfuge,

To the Governor's estimate of $680 million to be derived from General Fund revenues, I wish to add the following: Add to the $680 million estimate by the Governor on page 38 of the Budget Message, $11,736,000 unexpended and unpledged from 1949-1951 biennium. (These figures are contained in the report of the Auditor General.) Forty-four million dollar increase of one per cent C.N.I.; $15 million estimated increase in total C.N.I. collected due to definite increase in industrial activities all over the United States, when the five per cent is all applied, plus $14 million from specific source to be explained later, making a total of $764,736,000. Adding the unexpended $74,208,000 which makes a total of available funds of $836,942,000, exclusive of Federal grants and specific appropriations.

Mr. President, at this instant I just want to call your attention to one of the most serious governmental activities that in my mind is responsible for a great deal of the misunderstanding by legislators on both sides of the aisle, when it comes to reading and trying to process the budget. I asked the Auditor General to give me a statement of unexpended appropriation balances as of January 1, 1951. Then I asked the Auditor General to also give me the unexpended balances as of June 1, 1951, a period of five months. Let's see what we find. In the Governor's Office on January 1, we had $162,000. On May 31, or June 1, we had $54,000. In the Attorney General's Department—and this is something that everybody ought to study—on January 31, we had $2,079,000, and on May 31, we had $4,769,000. The Treasury Department had $8,801,000 on January 1, and on June 1, they had $1,311,000.

Now, Mr. President, I could go on down this list and I will leave this copy or make a copy for any Member of the Senate who wants to study it. Now, what I am trying to drive at, for instance, here is your State Department on January 31, rather, in a four-month period from January 31, to May 31, these comparisons are made. On January 31, they had $779,000, and ended up on June 1 with $29,000. You can go all the way down the line. You can go to public assistance; we know public assistance are fixed charges and they cannot carry a larger balance. The Historical Commission, the Administrative Commission—for instance, the Administrative Commission had $3,123,000 on January 31, and on May 31, they had $640,000.

Now, Mr. President, the point I am trying to make is that these departments, in order to justify the loaded demands upon the Treasury, go into the process of pledging the moneys that they have from the past biennium in the last four or five months of the biennium, in order to justify the demands being made for increased appropriations. I know of one instance where one department, in order to justify its demand for an appropriation in the next biennium, bought $35,000 worth of postage stamps two days before the end of biennium.

Now, what we are up against, gentlemen, is this, and I want to make this statement clear. No matter what we do, if we do not give new revenue to the Administrative Branch, the Administrative Branch by this kind of administration can make the Legislature look as if they did not know what they were doing. If we do give it, then everybody will be happy except the taxpayers. I for one am willing to be unhappy on my own account and let the taxpayers remain happy.

For obvious reasons I have dropped the lesser figures. Now let us take into consideration that the biennial receipts (this is also important) for the past biennium show the following very interesting comparisons. Total taxes for the fiscal year 1949 were $262,272,000, and yet the total taxes for the fiscal year 1950 were $303,155,000, or an increase of $40,883,000 for 1950 collections as against 1949 collections. We have every reason to believe that this increase reflects the business cycle for the next two year period. If this holds true, then the total biennial receipts ought to be considered from the possibilities of an increased return rather than a decrease as estimated by the Budget Director.

Mr. President, I know that it is hard and difficult to listen to a long message, but when we are faced with a problem as serious as this, I think that we have to take into consideration all the statements and all the figures available.

In searching the Governor's message, I find the following on page 6:

"The budget I am presenting to you calls for General Fund appropriations for the 1951-1953 biennium in the amount of $853,513,930 which amount includes a reserve of $20,000,000 for Civil Defense. The amount without the reserve, $833,513,930, compared with $766,094,548 for the 1949-1951 biennium, an increase of $67,419,382. However, the recommended appropriations also include $112,000,000 of obligations arising from actions taken before the advent of this Administration. These include $60,000,000 for bonus financing, $42,000,000 additional for school subsidies and retirement payments required under existing law, and approximately $10,000,000 additional for State Authority rentals.

"If these new obligations totaling $112,000,000 were deducted from the recommended appropriations, the required appropriations for the 1951-1953 biennium would be $741,513,930, or a reduction of $24,580,618, below the amount of appropriations including deficiencies, required for the 1949-1951 biennium."

If a person were to read this and then fail to take into consideration the items non-recurring in the budget, you would be led to believe that the Governor is saving the Commonwealth $24,580,000. However, let us look at the appropriations from the light of known facts. First, we agree that $60 million is needed for bonus financing; $10 million for State Authority rentals; $42 million for school subsidies and payments. This, of course, includes $20 million for public schools beyond the requirements of law and $9,310,000 for universities, colleges and State-aided institutions. This makes a total of $112 million. Admitting that this is true, let us add the $27 million for loss of income from the pop tax plus the disputed need of $20 million for civilian defense, we have a total of $159 million that the Governor apparently needs beyond the budget of 1949-1951.

Mr. President, you will note that I am granting to the Governor every item of expenditure that the Governor requests in the Fifteenth Biennial Budget. There has not been a pencil put upon any column to cut one cent from schools, from hospitals or from any of the services rendered by the G.S.A. or other commissions of the Commonwealth.

However, let us taken time to analyze the 1949-1951 appropriations. and we find that the Governor has appropriated $60 million less for public assistance than contained in the budget of 1949-1951; $15 million less than contained for Public Housing and $17 million less than contained for the Schuylkill River Project, making a total of $92 million non-recurring appropriations as against the Duff budget. Add to this the difference between the total revenues received by Duff of $687,210,000 from the same source of revenues that will now produce $750,736,000, or a difference of $63,524,000, making a total of $155,524,000. Added to this is the admitted additional income of $4 million from the Garrett Estate settlement and $2 million from the Mellon Estate, making a total of $161,524,000, plus an additional $8 million to be received by grants from the Federal Government for the categorical reliefs that was never available to the Commonwealth before, making a total of $169,524,000.

Allowing the Governor every additional expenditure that he has requested, namely—$159 million and notwithstanding that I have purposely disallowed any increase in capital stock tax and other revenue producing taxes and yet have purposely left out of this calculation the millions of dollars to be recovered by the State in closing the loopholes in the corporate income tax in House Bill No. 1303, which I point to as a result of the Democratic Minority's investigation and activity on the part of the people of the Commonwealth, there is still a surplus beyond recognized appropriations. There is no question but what additional millions of dollars can be saved by a minor operation upon the bloated State pay rolls and departmental extravagances. However, knowing that this phase of balancing the budget depends upon the conscience of the party in power, I have purposely left this out of the absolute calculation, which I have herewith presented to the Senate. In the face of the foregoing conclusions, this General Assembly in order to serve the interest of the people of the Commonwealth ought to pass on to the Governor the appropriations as listed in the budget message and lay at his door the responsibility for any action that he takes from then on.

I believe that every decent Member of this Senate objects to the method employed by the Chief Executive in attempting to create in the minds of the schoolteachers, in the minds of the hospital administrators, in the minds of the universities and college administrators and in the minds of the general public, that the shortcomings of his Budget Director are the fault of the Legislature. If this Legislature is to accept the dictatorial attitude assumed by the Administrative Branch, then the Legislature had best hide its head in a cloak of ignorance and slowly trudge its way back down to the dark damp cellars of political slavery. I, for one, speaking for the twenty Democratic Members of the State Senate, disaffirm responsibility for any unwarranted, unneeded and unsound slashing of any of the appropriated funds allocated for specific needs and needed services in this Commonwealth.

If the Governor stands firm in his position and the House of Representatives stands firm upon the position as stated by the Majority Leader, Mr. Smith, then this Senate ought to immediately pass the needed legislation and go home to its respective districts.

The only alternative to this is a capitulation on the part of the Senate and an abject surrender to distatorial demands that are contrary to the letter, to the purpose and to the spirit of the Constitutional Democratic Government we live under.

The latest release from the Governor in which he called attempts to cut governmental expenditures by the Senate, a childish act, are in a sense the language used by ward healers and petty politicians, who, when they can find no logical answer to a critical question, resort to the biting sarcasm of ridicule. For the better part of six months, as Minority Leader, I have exercised every restraint with the fervent hope that there was a common meeting ground upon which the differences of opinion could be resolved to the benefit of the people of the Commonwealth.

For the better part of six months, the Democratic Minority has withheld personal criticism of the Chief Executive at the outset because we felt that as Governor, he was entitled to all of the courtesies and all the opportunities to become acquainted with the problems and needs of the Commonwealth and later because of the sympathetic understanding of the shock sustained by the loss of his beloved wife.

Political parties do not as a rule restrain themselves when an opportunity presents itself to hold up for ridicule and criticism the indecisiveness, lack of leadership, disunity, and lack of harmony of the opposing political party. No clearer proof of this can be obtained than a quick glance at the national scene, where the Republican spokesmen started criticism of the Democratic Administration in 1933 and have continued up to the present moment without stopping to take a breath.

By comparison, the leadership displayed in Washington, in the face of the complexity and the multiplicity of the national and international problems facing this nation, the leadership in this State better fits the description given the Truman Administration by the Republican leaders of Congress.

In spite of the wide difference in the program of the Republican Party in Congress and the Republican Party in Pennsylvania, speaking for the Democratic Minority, I still say that if the Governor is following the advice of any select group, that he ought to either ignore the advice or get rid of the advisors.

The Senate must keep in mind one thing, that a bad administration can of course prove every statement I have made to be wrong, but if this Senate will make it mandatory that no department can expend beyond the appropriated sums, without the consent of the Legislature, then I assure you that no new taxes are needed and that the schoolteachers will receive all of the moneys promised them, universities and hospitals will receive needed increases and the development of specific areas will be carried on. If there is any act that can be deemed childish, it is the obvious attempts by the Administration to bludgeon the Members of the General Assembly with threats of cutting off State funds to Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and the above mentioned groups. This same threat was used before and in 1949 Democratic Members from the City of Pittsburgh voted for the pop tax.

At this time I would say there is an old Chinese proverb which reads—"Once Bitten By A Snake A Person Fears Every Rope."

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WALKER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I followed with a great deal of interest the presentation by the very distinguished gentleman from Westmoreland. As I look at this mimeographed copy of his presentation, naturally the first thought in my mind is rebuttal, but I want to say at the outset, Mr. President, that there are one or two items that I would like to call to the attention of the gentleman from Westmoreland at this time. One of them is the release that I handed out yesterday to the Members of the Republican Caucus, and after he has perused that, he will understand that some of the conclusions set forth in his budget message as of today are parallel, to a certain extent to some of the observations which I made in my presentation to the Members of my own Caucus. However, Mr. President, I think there are one or two things that must be said at this time, and I say them very frankly and sincerely, Mr. President, without any mental qualifications or reservations whatsoever.

First, Mr. President, with all due deference—and I apologize for dragging him into the discussion—I would like to refer to that particular sentence in the release the gentleman from Westmoreland has regarding the very distinguished Senator who represents "Old Mother Cumberland."

Mr. President, there have been times on the floor of the Senate when Senator Wade and I have differed as to observations, crystallization of opinions and conclusions, but, Mr. President, never at any time have I ever had the least doubt as to the gentleman's sincerity, veracity or his courage. As a matter of fact, Mr. President, even when I was attempting to verbally horsewhip him here on the floor of this Senate in 1949, I admired his courage and his sincerity in standing up for the things in which he honestly believed.

We all know, Mr. President, the comment he made when referring to a mercantile tax and I know, Mr. President, and I say this with all due deference to the press, that when the gentleman from Cumberland said that the originator of a mercantile tax was the gentleman from Westmoreland, he was referring to the time several years ago when the gentleman from Westmoreland did suggest a mercantile tax. Now, I do not think that there was any attempt on the part of the gentleman from Cumberland to mislead or confuse the issue. He was merely using it as a focal resting point for the discussion underway, and I think, Mr. President, and I say this to the gentleman from Westmoreland with all sincerity, that the printed record of what he says here would come with a lot sweeter taste if the personal reference to the gentleman from Cumberland were stricken, not only from the record, but from the printed page herein.

Secondly, Mr. President, I would like to say something about "dictatorial powers." I think we all exercise them. I do not want to drag the Chief Executive into this discussion, not because of any lack of courage but because of the problem with which we are all confronted.

Mr. President, as I said here on the floor two weeks ago, a Chief Executive has a pretty tough time when he comes in and takes over the reigns of government here in Harrisburg. Those of us who have served for some time in the Senate of Pennsylvania have acquired by long tenure in office certain familiarities with the governmental wheels. The present occupant of the Governor's Office did not have the opportunity to acquire that experience. We all know the difficulty of stepping into that office and immediately assuming the responsibility of all of the things that are involved in the Governor's Office. The personal and private problems that confronted the present Chief Executive are known to all of us. Those of us who have had, during this Session or any other Session of the General Assembly, temporary problems at home know how tough it is to keep your mind on earth-shaking bills, like shooting pigeons off the Capitol Building, while wondering and worrying about the immediate members of your family back home, and we all have an abiding sympathy with the difficulty of arriving at decisions during a time like that, because we have all gone through it.

Mr. President, coupled with that, you have a problem where the Chief Executive has in his employ, appointed by him, a Budget Secretary. Mr. President, in my opinion the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would be unfair to his representative setup if he did not accept at face value the figures presented to him by the Budget Secretary. I have differed with those figures; I have differed with those figures in the Budget Office; I have differed with those figures in the front office; I have differed with them here on the floor of the Senate. That is a part of the representative form of government. That is why we were sent down here. Now, the gentleman from Westmoreland, of course, uses in his printed release the "democratic government." I know he will not take it to heart if I shift it and call the same type of government a representative form of government, because we still, on this side of the aisle, believe in the Republic.

Mr. President, the Budget Secretary presented to the Chief Executive his estimate of tax returns. The Budget Secretary presented to the Chief Executive his analysis of the fiscal picture of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Upon the integrity of those figures rests the relationship between the Chief Executive and the Budget Secretary. It is not dictatorial, Mr. President, for the Governor to attempt to fulfill the mission for which the budget was prepared. He approved it when he presented it. He approved it because his Budget Secretary said, "This is the best picture that can be drawn from the facts that are obtainable in this office." I do not think the Governor is objecting, Mr. President, to a difference of opinion. I do not think that the Governor has been any more dictatorial in attempting to see that his conclusions receive the approval of a majority of the Members of this Senate. The question of being dictatorial from the front office, I think, is debatable. I can remember in 1949, Mr. President, I can remember in 1947, I can go back as far as 1939. I have had the privilege of being here under five Governors. I cannot recall any one of them at one time or another not having taken various members of this Senate out for a fast walk around the Capitol Building. That is natural, Mr. President let me say this, that, if the people of Pennsylvania ever have the opportunity of having as their Chief Executive the gentleman from Westmoreland, I think you will find there will be times when he will come over here with a closed fist and take us for a fast walk in the hope of hammering home some of his philosophies of government. I don't think he is criticizing the Governor for being dictatorial, I think he probably winced a little at some of the releases that have come out of the front office, but that is part of our representative form of government, Mr. President. We have learned long ago that if you are going to dish it out, you have to learn to take it, and I know the gentleman from Westmoreland can take it just as easily as the rest of us, and probably easier, because he has dished it out to many in his long and checkered career as Minority Leader.

Now, Mr. President, the differences of opinion have been thoroughly discussed in the Republican Caucus. We have spent a good many hours trying to analyze the conclusions of some of the Members of this Caucus as compared to the conclusions printed in the budget. For the information of the gentlemen of the Senate, we spent long weary hours last week slowly marching our way up a stony and steep hill, trying to arrive at some conclusions that would be beneficial to the people of Pennsylvania. There is a sincere desire on the part of the gentlemen on this side of the aisle to solve this problem to the best interests of the people of the Commonwealth.

Mr. President, I would be hypocritical if I stood here and said that there is no difference of opinion, because everybody in Pennsylvania knows there is a difference of opinion, but it is a sincere and honest difference of opinion, and we have as much respect for the opinions of the gentleman who are opposing us as we do for the gentlemen on our side. It is impossible for me to take the analysis presented by Senator Dent and follow it step by step here in the few minutes that it took him to deliver it, and then intelligently answer it, and I certainly would not bore the Senate with a haphazard attempt to do that very thing. I know that Senator Dent has had the opportunity to go through the statement which I presented to the Republican Caucus yesterday. There are a number of items in his analysis that I would like to discuss later. I cannot sincerely quarrel with some of his conclusions, because they are conclusions arrived at perhaps by a different path than were arrived at by some of the Senators on this side of the aisle, and we have frequently so stated.

Mr. President, I do want to say to the gentleman from Westmoreland that this is a Republican problem and we will solve it in our own back yard, because the people of Pennsylvania are all interested in this problem regardless of their political affiliations, and, naturally, the responsibility for arriving at the conclusion is just as important on the Democratic side of the aisle as it is here on the Republican side. However, Mr. President, as I said two weeks ago, and I want to repeat it now, we on the Republican side of the aisle are just as sincerely desirous of arriving at the proper answers in this tumultuous fiscal picture of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as are any of the ten million people that live in this great Commonwealth. We propose to arrive at it dispassionately, without any personalities, without any mud slinging, without any attempt to becloud the issue with any political partisan matters whatsoever. We all know that in a political turmoil and in the political arena of catch as catch can, financing sometimes gets difficult. We have been down here for a long time. Our tempers and our purses are getting frayed. Everybody wants to go back home, but we cannot go back home until we solve this problem, and everyone knows the only way we are going to solve it is to sit down with an unselfish and sincere purpose, with all of the factors involved.

Mr. President, it is my sincere belief that that will be done. I cannot speak for the Administration in trying and attempting to say to you, Senator, what the Administration might do in the face of the problem that is confronting it, but I will say this, Mr. President, without any fear of being contradicted by the Administration, as sure as we are here today, the Administration will give us its whole-hearted cooperation in arriving at a proper solution to this very difficult problem. This is not the problem of any individual, of any clique, of any faction or any political party. This is the problem of ten million people in Pennsylvania, and if we will approach it on that basis, I know we are going to arrive at the proper answer.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WADE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I have just observed on my desk a publication titled, "People," and on one of the last pages is a small statement which reads as follows:

"If Moses had been a committee, or a caucus or a senate, the Israelites would still be in Egypt."

Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, in this hour when we seem to have so many differences of opinion and so many problems, I should like to submit to you and ask you to join with me in the adoption of a resolution which leads us back into some history.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY CONGRATULATES CUMBERLAND COUNTY ON ITS BICENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

Mr. WADE offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, June 20, 1951.

If one could climb a mythical barrier separating past from future time, his backward glance over the many years to 1751 would reveal the incredible development of a struggling, embryonic America into the teeming, stupendous United States of today, the most powerful nation in the history of the world with a limitless potential for greatness and service to all peoples.

The history of Cumberland County and its county seat, Carlisle, parallels that of our country. From the frontier outpost of Carlisle Barracks, where soldiers mounted guard in 1750, the pages of romantic and adventuresome history can be rapidly turned until the present Cumberland Valley, dotted with flourishing communities, lies beautiful, well-groomed, and appealing before the surveyor's eye.

During the vacillating fortunes of the Revolution, Carlisle steadily turned out armament and ordnance for the ragged, but spirited, Continentals. The fabulous Molly Pitcher, who won immortal fame at Monmouth, found sanctuary after her Revolutionary exploits in the sequestered peace of Carlisle until her death in 1832.

During the Civil War, the adversities of conflict flowed into Cumberland County. In 1863, prior to the Battle of Gettysburg, the Confederate forces occupied and shelled Carlisle. Yet the staunch citizens of Carlisle maintained their courage and stoutly reaffirmed their faith in the Union, despite the havoc and the destruction wrought by the grape and canister from the enemy guns.

Aside from the many wars, which aggressive circumstances have compelled our Nation to wage and to which Cumberland County has always contributed generously of men and materiel, are the more enduring monuments to peace, industry, agriculture, literature, science and the spiritual verities—which are discernible everywhere in this Valley, kissed by nature, caressed by man, and blessed by God; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That the General Assembly express its enthusiastic congratulations to Cumberland County on the occasion of its bicentennial celebration; and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly is honored and proud to acknowledge the inestimable contribution that Cumberland County has made to the civic, social, material and cultural wealth of the Nation; and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly extends its warmest wishes for a successful conduct of the bicentennial activities, in which the prestige and the preeminence of Cumberland County will be acclaimed to the world. May this benign influence expand indefinitely and irradiate into every section of our Commonwealth.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, perhaps I misunderstood the intentions of the gentleman from Cumberland. However, knowing him like I do, or as I think I do over the years, that is just about what I could have expected.

Mr. President, what the Majority Leader did not understand is that in the few years that I have been in mixed company, I have always tried to do things that I calculate to be what I think are just and fair. I do not say that the gentleman from Cumberland had in mind the results that have attained to the action that he took and the statement that he made, but I don't think that even a small child who inadvertently breaks a window with a baseball bat ought to be reprimanded a little. So, therefore, if he ignorantly started a chain of reaction that has caused me no end of embarrassment and a great deal of trouble, then it is only fair that he should know what is happening. I want him to know that I received over two thousand pieces of mail and telephone calls on the strength of the statement he made that I was proposing a mercantile tax. I want him to know that these things are not what I consider to be the just and fair way of handling a relationship between men. There are some people who do things who do not realize just how far their innocent statements might reach. Then there are others who calculate deliberately just what the result may be of a statement.

I do not think that the gentleman intentionally wanted to create the impression in Westmoreland County that I was against the income tax but would prefer a mercantile tax. However, in making the statement, if he wanted to say that in 1947, I was for a State-wide mercantile tax or the reenactment of a State-wide mercantile tax, which at that time I said was the oldest tax upon the statute books, outside of real estate, and I said then, too, that the only reason it was taken from the statute books was because there were four hundred jobs in the hands of a Democrat that had to be put in the hands of a Republican. These things I said in 1947, my memory is mighty clear, but I do not think it was the duty or the prerogative of the gentleman from Cumberland to stand upon his feet and announce to the newspapers outside of the Senate Chamber that Senator Dent favored a mercantile tax in place of an income tax. Whatever I favor, I have the courage to stand before the people of Pennsylvania and say I favor it. I favor cooperation, Mr. President, between the Chief Executive and the General Assembly. I have said repeatedly that I am not positive in my position. I do say that I have made a study of it, that there is an honest difference of opinion, but to date, as up to this morning's releases, we have yet to have received an offer of cooperation or compromise. We have never been invited in, and I say again we are willing to be invited in. We are willing to talk over the problem. Instead of it being, as the gentleman from Allegheny says, a problem for ten million people, it has developed, because of their own action, into a problem of the Republican Party. If it is a problem for ten million people, then invite the Democratic Minority in to help you solve it. It is not that we are beyond making mistakes, but there may be some suggestions that we can make to help resolve this stalemate that we find ourselves in.

We have twenty votes, Mr. President, that is all; twenty light votes, but they are determined. They are determined to see to it that the people of Pennsylvania will not be burdened with an excessive tax program. I said in 1947 that the pop tax was not needed. I was ridiculed, but in 1947 we ended the biennium in 1949, with a $99,000,000 surplus. The pop tax brought in $29,000,000. Was the pop tax needed? It was not.

Mr. President, in 1949, I again said the pop tax was not needed, and in 1951, we ended the biennium with a $33,000,000 surplus. The pop tax brought in $27,000,000. Was it needed? It was not. The figures here show whether the Governor ought to take the advice and counsel of the Senate or whether he ought to take the advice and counsel of his Budget Director. I know that the Governor feels, and he has so stated, that he must accept the figures given him by the Budget Director, but I want to say this, that if you will read these figures contained in your own budget messages—every Member of the Senate has these figures available—in 1941-1943, we have a surplus of $34,000,000; 1943-1945, we had a surplus of $105,000,000; in 1945-1947, we had a $63,000,000 surplus; in 1947, we had $99,000,000, and remember that is the year, that is the year that Governor Duff asked for $124,000,000 of additional taxes.

Remember, Mr. President, that the statements we make upon the Senate floor, we cannot deny. We may be wrong and we may be corrected in our position, but we try objectively. I want to say what every Member of this Senate knows and for the information of the Majority Leader, there has never been up until this moment a reference to the Chief Executive made by me. I have never yet said that he was at fault; I never blamed him. I left it go at that, but the time has come that when the Chief Executive decides that we who differ with him are childish in our actions and that our pet projects, as he calls them, will be cut. Schoolteachers are writing me letters saying that if I do not vote for the income tax, they do not get their raise. If they do not get their raise, I do not get their votes.

Now, Mr. President, maybe a vote is very important and maybe it is not so important. Maybe my position at this time is due to the way I feel, because at the moment I am carrying a couple of canes, and maybe I am a little closer to realities than when I am in the full blush and bloom of my health and vigor, but at this moment I could use a word that I will not, but it does not matter a fiddler's darn whether I am ever elected again or not. It does not matter a bit, but it does matter as to what I stood for and the things I worked for while I was a Member of this Senate.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. FREED asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. FREED. Mr. President, I did not expect to get in after all this. I had asked for the floor earlier, but I wish to say, first of all, that I am not going to speak as a Democrat or Republican, but I would like to talk a little bit as an American.

First, Mr. President, let me say that I come from a county where every other man is definitely a Democrat and every third woman is a Democrat. I am saying that because all of our county government, all of our judges, three of them, are Democrats, our city council and our mayor are definitely Democrats, but our row offices happen to be mostly on the Republican side. I would merely like to say this so that nobody thinks I am trying to either get the right of way, one way or the other, as being a Democrat or a Republican, but in looking back to when I came up here, I had the misfortune of having been practically thrown out of the Senate, of not being admitted because I lack the proper credentials. It took me quite a little while until I could be admitted, because we had somebody from the State Troopers, Mr. President, telling me I was no Senator, but it so happens that I had some of these cards made up and my guests were admitted, and I had to stay on the outside until a key got there and I could open up my mailbox, and then I finally got into the place.

Mr. President, I now am coming down to something that I think belongs to the halls of the Senate, and I will say here that this permission was not granted to me in our Caucus, because I felt that it was something for the entire Senate, Democrats and Republicans alike.

I know when I was up here in the hall of the House, and I was there from 1938 until 1947, that we definitely had every committee meeting tiled that there was in this Capitol Hill. We definitely did not have any outsiders interfering with our committee meetings. We did not have outsiders coming in there and trying to tell us how to work on a particular bill while we were working on bills. I think it is high time when we are getting down to the serious end of this particular business, to try to wind it up and try to do a good job, that we should now possibly have our rooms tiled and see to it that we Members of the Committee can definitely work without any interferences from some special interests or any special people. If you do not want to do that, I think we should let those people who are not wise to it be able to get in at us the same as the ones who are getting in at us. I think when we are out spending money—I am one of those boys who believes in paying the bills and I am the fellow who will go out after the money to pay those bills. If the public wants it, I try to give it to them, and then I am perfectly willing to put on a tax to see that they get it.

Mr. President, I am going to cut it short, but I think that the last statement I want to make is that I looked through the budget and I tried to look through our Revenue Department to see as to what our income was, and I think since we have some men in here who are good public auctioneers that we should turn around and put up these offices that we have on the Hill, and see who is going to be the highest bidder to take care of all these offices and use our secretaries at the Commonwealth's expense and maintain offices on the Senate side. I do not get into the House to any extent, and am not paying any rent for it, but I believe it would make up quite a bit of our budget to collect rent from those men who are taking office space and using secretaries on this particular side of the Capitol. Thank you.

Mr. WALKER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, for the information of the gentlemen of the Senate, I have a concurrent resolution recalling Senate Bill No. 406 from the Governor for the purpose of amendment, and I might say for your information that there is an error in the printing of the title of the bill which the Department of Justice has asked us to correct so that they can properly present it to the Chief Executive for his signature.

Therefore, Mr. President, I offer this concurrent resolution recalling Senate Bill No. 406 from the Governor for the purpose of amendment, and move its immediate adoption.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

RECALLING SENATE BILL No. 406 FROM THE GOVERNOR

Mr. WALKER offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, June 20, 1951.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), that Senate Bill No. 406, Printer's No. 137, entitled "An act to further amend Section 303 of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 2017) entitled 'An act creating in each county (except of the first class) as a separate corporation and in each city of the first and second class as a part of the city government an institution district for the care and maintenance of certain indigent persons and children prescribing the powers and duties of county commissioners county treasurers city departments of public welfare the State Department of Welfare and the State Department of Public Assistance in respect thereto abolishing certain poor districts and terminating the terms of directors overseers guardians and managers of the poor and poor district auditors and providing for the temporary employment of certain of them providing for the transfer vesting sale and disposition of the property of poor districts and the payment of their obligations imposing certain existing obligations on institution districts and on the Commonwealth regulating the affairs of poor districts until abolished revising amending changing and consolidating the law relating to the care of the poor and repealing existing laws' by requiring the approval of the court of quarter session for the erection and alteration of institutions and further prescribing the powers of the Department of Welfare," be recalled from the Governor for further amendments.

Ordered, That the Clerk present same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. YOSKO read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 756, entitled:

An Act providing an optional method for the joint assessment and valuation of persons and property for school and city or borough tax purposes by school districts of the second, third, and fourth classes coextensive with or within, cities and boroughs and such cities and boroughs.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. YOSKO asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, a short time ago I asked the Secretary of Public Assistance to give me a series of information, and one of the items of information had to do with the number of liens on record against recipients of public assistance. From the information Mrs. Evans gave me, she states there are 64,247 liens on record in the court houses in the sixty-seven counties of the Commonwealth, and that these 64,247 liens represented a value of $35,000,000.

Mr. President, I thought it was about time we did something about making an attempt to collect this money, especially so since everybody seems to be of the opinion that money is needed and we want to get away from imposing this income tax. I have drafted this bill here that would authorize the Department of Public Assistance to settle these claims for fifty per cent of their value. This bill will give the recipients who are supposed to owe this money six months to pay the amount that is involved in six monthly installments, and would give these recipients until July 1 of next year to pay these claims at fifty per cent of their value.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. YOSKO read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 757, entitled:

An Act directing the Department of Public Assistance to settle at fifty per centum (50%) of the face value thereof, during a certain period, certain obligations given to or recovered by the Commonwealth to secure repayment of moneys paid as assistance under the provisions of the "Public Assistance Law," and imposing duties on the Department of Justice.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare.

THIRD READING CALENDAR

BILL ON THIRD READING DEFEATED ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 48, entitled:

An Act relating to and defining chiropractic and the right to practice chiropractic requiring licensure conferring powers and imposing duties upon the State Board of Chiropractic Examiners providing for the granting suspension and revocation of licenses issued by the board conferring jurisdiction upon the Court and Common Pleas of Dauphin County and prescribing penalties

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. CHAPMAN. After studying the bill, even as amended, I feel it would be extremely detrimental to the welfare of our citizens to pass such a measure. This is not only my opinion, but it is concurred in by over fourteen thousand registered physicians in Pennsylvania, which constitute the Pennsylvania Medical Society.

The Chiropractic Board as it now exists consists of three licensed chiropractors, who have conformed to the legal educational requirements, and who represent the 500 or 600 individuals who have done likewise, and two unlicensed chiropractors representing the thousand or more who are either unable or unwilling to conform to the legal educational requirements and who desire licensure by legislation rather than education.

This was made possible in 1949 by this General Assembly in passing the act which created the Board of Chiropractic Examiners and contained meager qualifications for the members.

With such a board administering the law permitting unqualified individuals to practice upon our citizens it is doubtful if proper emphasis will be placed upon the approval of schools of chiropractic; therefore, a number of presently unqualified schools will be approved and their graduates permitted to apply for licensure in this State. The result will inevitably be the influx into this State of a large number of unqualified individuals.

The definition as contained in this act is entirely too broad. Who can tell what "the philosophy, science and art of things natural" in the human body means? Who knows what interpretation can be placed upon it?

Who knows what procedures are necessary before adjusting misaligned vertebrae and other articulations and tissues means?

It can mean the reduction of large joints, and fractures, and the treatment of same, which can only be properly done by individuals with long and extensive training.

Who knows what instruments of analysis may be used? The use of the microscope, the bronchoscope, the cystoscope, the ophthalmoscope and others can be permitted under this act which should be used and the findings interpreted only by those who have had a comprehensive course in their use.

I am informed that there are many forms of treatment which do not include the use of drugs or surgery, which should be permitted only by those who have had sufficient training and experience.

To mention a few I would say the treatment of severe mental disease and malaria by the development of high fever by the application of extreme heat to the body.

Strictly speaking, the injection of vaccines and certain biologicals may not be the use of drugs.

Under this definition a chiropractor can invade the field of medicine, osteopathy, optometry, chiropody and even dentistry.

When we consider that an individual who has practiced illegally in Pennsylvania for 25 years or more can be licensed under this act by having no preprofessional training, very little professional training, which may be only six weeks, and taking a simple examination; thus placing in his hands the use of all the beforementioned procedures contained in the definition in the treatment of our citizens, it seems to me that careful thought should be given when we of the responsible Senate vote on this measure.

As we look further in the act we find continued lowering of the preprofessional and professional training as now required under our present system for those practicing illegally for 20 years and 10 years.

Even though the number of these individuals may be small, the act places in their hands instruments and procedures which will very likely be dangerous to our citizens.

Senate Bill 486, of which I am co-sponsor, limits the practice of chiropractic properly and according to recognized authorities on chiropractic. We are willing, however, to broaden the definition in S. 486 as follows: "Chiropractic shall mean a system of locating misaligned displaced vertebrae of the human spine, the examination preparatory to and the adjustment by hand of such misaligned or displaced vertebrae and other articulations together with massage and contact of the human body with the use of scientific instruments of analysis as taught in the approved schools of chiropractic without the use of drugs, surgery, obstetrics, the treatment of fractures or major dislocations."

The educational qualifications in S 486 are not particularly to my liking, however, I am willing to amend S. 486 to conform to the educational requirements as prescribed in House Bill 48. I have the assurance that the act will be administered by a Board with long years of experience and no schools will be approved which in their opinion do not meet high standards.

Thus, the citizens of this Commonwealth will have the assurance that they will be properly protected.

I, therefore, respectfully suggest that if any act is passed, Senate Bill 486 should be the one.

I, sincerely and emphatically request that my colleagues vote against House Bill No. 48.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred:

Section 1 Clause 10 of Section 925 of the act approved the tenth day of March one thousand nine hundred forty-nine (P. L. 30) entitled "An act relating to the public school system including certain provisions applicable as well to private and parochial schools amending revising consolidating and changing the laws relating thereto" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 925 Powers and Duties The county board of school directors in respect to school districts under the supervision of the county superintendent shall have power and its duty shall be

(10) To employ an attorney for such purposes as may be required and to fix his compensation which shall not exceed [one hundred dollars ($100)] (a) two thousand dollars ($2000) in counties of the first and second class (b) fifteen hundred dollars ($15000) in counties of the third and fourth class (c) one thousand dollars ($1000) in counties of the fifth and sixth class and (d) five hundred dollars ($500) in counties of the seventh and eighth class per annum except [upon the approval of the court of common pleas of the county] when determined by a convention of school directors which may be called for this purpose at any time by the county superintendent The compensation herein provided for shall be paid by the Commonwealth from appropriations for this purpose or from the appropriations for the public schools To the extent of the limits provided in the above schedule whenever a convention of school directors vote a salary greater than that provided in the above schedule the excess shall be paid from the appropriations apportioned to the school districts under the supervision of the county superintendent before the same is distributed

And said bill having been read at length the third time,
And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I intend to vote "no" on this bill because if you will look at the bill, you will see where we are increasing the compensation for attorneys for school boards from one hundred dollars to two thousand dollars in one instance, and in the second class districts from one hundred dollars to fifteen hundred dollars, and so forth. I think that sooner or later we must take and analyze our school costs of the teaching expenditures as against the non-teaching expenditures. We cannot keep digging into the pockets of the people of the Commonwealth with the cry that we are going to raise school teachers' salaries, and keep adding all of these fancy balls up on the Christmas tree. If we are going to increase teachers' salaries with the money we appropriate for that purpose, then it must go into the teachers' salaries.

Mr. President, I think we must sooner or later make a division between non-teaching and teaching costs in Pennsylvania. This is an increase that is, in my opinion, unwarranted at this time.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred:)

VERIFICATION OF THE ROLL

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Request has been made to have the roll verified.

The Clerk will call the names of those recorded as having voted in the affirmative.

The Clerk read the names of those recorded as having voted in the affirmative as follows:

Bane,	Hare,	Pechan,	Taylor,
Barrett,	Kephart,	Peelor,	Wade,
Berger,	Kessler,	Propert,	Walker,
Blass,	Letzler,	Robinson,	Watkins,
Byrne,	Mahany,	Rosenfeld,	Watson,

Crowe,	McCreesh,	Silvert,	Wood,
Diehm,	McMenamin,	Snowden,	Wagner,
Fleming,	McPherson, Jr.,	Stevenson,	Presiding Officer
Freed	Meade,

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any corrections?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I do not know how you arrive at the votes by Senator Peelor, Senator Meade and Senator Chapman, when their seats are vacant. I do not know how you are able to mark them as voting.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, Senator Chapman is on the floor.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, he was not on the floor before. I am now speaking of the past.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have got my back to the rail, and I can only take Senator Chapman's word for it. I suggest you communicate with the gentleman from Warren, himself.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair suggests that the gentleman from Warren, Mr. Chapman, was within the confines of the Senate, which indicates that his vote should be recorded if he wishes to have it recorded.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, if he cares to vote I have no objection, but up until now he has failed to vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does Senator Chapman care to be recorded on this vote? If so, how?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I wish to be recorded as voting "aye."

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I have no objection to anyone wishing to be recorded, but I failed to hear the voice of Senators Meade and Peelor, who are recorded as voting in the affirmative.

Mr. MEADE. Mr. President, I voted "aye."

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, do I understand that the affirmative roll is being challenged, and if so, where?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, the affirmative roll is not being challenged. I am only objecting to having names placed on the affirmative roll when they have not answered the roll call. That is my prerogative, and I intend to keep on doing so.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have no objection to the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, at any time exercising his prerogative when a Senator is not in the Senate Chamber, but may I suggest to him hereafter that we should perhaps, adopt a rule of the Senate that no Senator be permitted to leave his seat until after the roll is called, verified, locked, sealed and delivered. Members of the Senate have the practice, Mr. President, especially those who are at the upper end of the alphabet, of answering to their names and then getting up and walking out. Now, if the gentleman is going to verify these rolls, I will suggest to the Members of the Senate that they remain in their seats until the verification has been completed.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I would like to know how the gentleman from Indiana, Senator Peelor, is recorded.

Mr. PEELOR. Mr. President, I voted "aye."

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I certainly concur with Senator Walker that the Members should be in their seats before they cast their votes in the future.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have no objection to that, but from my own observations, that it is a double blade rule.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any further corrections? The Chair hears none. The affirmative roll stands approved.

The Clerk will call the names of those recorded as having voted in the negative.

The Clerk read the names of those recorded as having voted in the negative as follows:

Barr, Dent,	Haluska, Lane, Leader,	Neff, Stiefel,	Toole, Yosko, DiSilvestro,

The PRESIDENT. Are there any corrections?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I inquire how the gentleman from Lawrence, Senator Neff, is recorded as voting?

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. He is recorded as voting "no."

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I just wanted to call Senator Haluska's attention to the fact that he has two men on the other side who are not in their seats.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, two wrongs do not make a right. Our men have the same right to leave their seats as your men. So, I think it will equalize itself.

Mr. NEFF. Mr. President, in answer to the statement of the Majority Leader, I might say that we would all be a lot more happy in here and expedite the business of the Chamber if he would stay in his seat just a little more than he does.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, since we are becoming a little facetious, maybe the Majority Floor Leader and the Minority Floor Leader can instruct me as to what pattern I should follow or what method I should enforce to find out who voted "no" for me about two months ago, and I, as a good sport, kept quiet while the fire was burning down in South Philadelphia, because I was recorded as voting in absentia.

Now, Mr. President, I think if we are going to resort to these tactics in the last days of this Session, maybe it would be a good idea to go over to the Legislative Reference Bureau and find out who voted "no" for me who was interested in that bill at the time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is the negative roll challenged further? If not, the negative roll stands approved.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. JOHNSON. RESOLUTION No. 56.

In the House of Representatives, June 19, 1951.

That McKean County is one of the most progressive and delightful areas in Pennsylvania is a fact patent to everyone. But it is not equally well known that this enviable reputation does not stem from mere chance or magical luck, but is solidly predicated on the civic performance record of its worthy and substantial citizenry.

The center of the famous high quality Pennsylvania petroleum with its by-products, the site of the most beautiful court house in the Commonwealth, the home of thousands of Pennsylvania's most illustrious citizens, McKean County is truly an exemplar community among the political units of the State. The financial status of McKean County is excellent. Not only is its budget in balance, but unlike so many other political divisions at all levels has never had a program of fantastic spending and wierd financing. Most of the credit for this happy, financial picture is owing to the magerial skill, the administrative talent, the frugality, the foresight, and the integrity of the County Commissioners; therefore be it

Resolved, That this House of Representatives extend its heartiest congratulations to McKean County on the occasion of its recent emancipation from debt; and be it further

Resolved, That the Commissioners of McKean County be cited and commended for their excellent management of the County's many activities whereby loans aggregating $950,000 were retired on June 15th.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BOLTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to ask information on this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Sollenberger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BOLTON. Mr. Speaker, what is the purpose of the establishment of a bureau of higher education under the Department of Public Instruction?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker since the end of World War II the colleges and universities in Pennsylvania have had a very difficult time trying to adjust their work in education to the needs of the veterans and to the needs of the high school graduates. For the past five years the colleges and universities could not handle the group that wanted to enter. Now we of course are going into what we might call a slump and some of them are below the needs for handling these boys and girls, and of course, the veterans.

Second, they need some coordinating branch here in Pennsylvania to be ready at any time to help the colleges and universities to work out their plans, and have data on hand to give the colleges and universities the desired information. We have nothing today for taking care of those needs.

The second reason is that when information is needed they must go to various places, to the Bureau of Education in Washington, to one college or another, one university or another, to procure the data that should be on file somewhere, and we do not have it.

The growth of the colleges and universities today has been so great over what it was ten years ago, that the needs are beyond what they can take care of by having only an executive secretary, who has nothing but a little office and not enough help, and the office is not equipped to take care of the needs of the colleges and universities at what we might term one central place.

Therefore in the light of those two very important reasons they are asking for a bureau of higher education in the Department of Public Instruction.

Mr. BOLTON. Mr. Speaker, Dr. Sollenberger, can you tell me what the cost in dollars to the Commonwealth will be through the creation of this bureau of higher education?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman it would be the salary of one man. What that salary would be set at is, of course, beyond what I would know today.

Naturally there would have to be a secretary for this man, or it would have to be a transfer of one of the secretaries within the Department to his office. Then, of course, the necessary office equipment. I think that is definitely what the bill calls for.

Now to set an amount, no, Mr. Bolton, I would not know. I would say that it would range fifteen, sixteen, seventeen thousand dollars. That may not be an accurate statement, but it is an assumption of about what it would cost.

Mr. BOLTON. Is that annually?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Annually, yes.

Mr. BOLTON. Annually. Well, Doctor, can one man and one secretary at the rate of fifteen thousand dollars or eighteen dollars a year perform all these functions that you have mentioned in your first answer?

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, I would say that that is a little low. My statement may be a little low by the time they would pay the necessary expenses, because there would be travelling expenses in many cases, which of course are costly. That naturally would come out of the funds allocated to that division. It is possible that it might be a couple of thousand dollars more. I would not say no to that.

Mr. BOLTON. Well Mr. Speaker, apparently we have had colleges and universities in the Commonwealth that have gotten along very well without a bureau of higher education in the Department of Public Instruction for several hundred years, and now that we have gotten to the point where the lights in the House cannot be turned on because of a rigid economic program, it seems to me that they could possibly get along very well for the next few years without a bureau of higher education.

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman ask me a question? I cannot hear very well here because there are too many conversations going on around me.

Mr. BOLTON. Mr. Speaker, Dr. Sollenberger, I said that apparently the colleges and universities in the Commonwealth have gotten along quite well for a period of several hundred years without a bureau of higher education in the Department of Public Instruction, and in view of the apparent rigid economy program which is now in effect, we have no lights in the House for example, it does seem that the colleges and universities could get along without a bureau of higher education.

Mr. SOLLENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that anyone who has made a study of the tremendous increase in the work of the colleges and universities since 1940 and 1941, which meant the beginning of the decline of the student body, and then from 1945 and 1946 on to 1949 and 1950 school year, college year, would know the work of those colleges and the need of those colleges for some central place to transact the business necessary, and would certainly know that that has increased many, many fold.

At the present time the demands that are being made of them on the present draft situation is keeping one man busy in the large universities, and it means a half-time man in the small colleges; and beginning just lately on the faculty, a man to help take care of this work.

If they could have a central place to transact this business it would mean that the work back in the colleges would lessen considerably, be more efficient, and the data that was received could go out, to anywhere from seventy-two to some ninety some colleges, depending on whether you include junior colleges in that group or not. Thus the expense to the college and possibly to the State, if they had to enter again into a post-war period as they did before, the cost of having that division would not be nearly as much as the amount of money that has to be spent, at least temporarily, to set up a post-war situation, and equally serious, the slump in the college registration and matriculation.

Mr. BOLTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

If the other two hundred Members of the House would yield, I would like to say that I fail to see how one man in the bureau of higher education, in the Department of Public Instruction, can perform all the multitudinous duties which Dr. Sollenberger has outlined. I feel that the State could well get along without this expense.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, in connection with the discussion of this measure I cannot permit the criticism of the administration's economy policy to pass unchallenged. We lacked lights for a brief period owing to the fact that the line blew a fuse, a practice which I commend to the prayerful consideration of the gentleman from Montgomery.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the passage of this bill. I was prepared to discuss this bill at great length and to debate it at great length, but I do not wish to impose on the time of the Members of this House. I know they have a lot of legislation to pass today.

I do want to say this: I have no special interest in this bill whatsoever. The only interest I have is that I feel it is my duty as a legislator to call matters to the attention of the Members of this House any time I feel that it is for the protection of the health and the welfare of the people of this Commonwealth.

I feel it is my duty to protect the health of the people of this Commonwealth against certain unscrupulous manufacturers and processors of certain foods. These men would add to certain foods a substance, regardless of what is going to be said later about it, sulphur dioxide which definitely is injurious to the human system.

As I said before, I will not take any more of your time, but in closing I just want to say that this bill stinks. It stinks from too much sulphur dioxide.

Mr. MADIGAN. Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether I will be able to take the stink out of the bill or not.

I would like to assure the Members of this House that I would be the last one to bring legislation before the House if I thought it would be harmful to the health and welfare of the citizens of this Commonwealth.

This legislation is designed to protect the health of the citizens, by limiting the amount of sulphur dioxide which can be used in the preservation of fresh fruits, vegetables and so forth.

I have been assured by members of the department, and I have some assurance from men of the medical profession, that there are not sufficient quantities of this drug that will be harmful in any way.

Like Dr. Maxwell, I am not going to impose on the time of the Members, but I do want to urge your favorable consideration of this bill.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to continue this debate any longer than necessary, but I would like to point out that this bill, the way it is written, is to me rather complicated, and I think it is to most of the Members who read it. It is a little hard to understand, and I just want to point out this fact; that in certain foods it increases the amount of sulphur dioxide six times as much, in other instances it increases it four times as much, in another instance it increases it three times as much, and at one place it does not say how much it increases it—it just says the "tolerance." If anybody can tell me what the tolerance of sulphur dioxide is, I would like to know.

Mr. HOGGARD. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman who sponsored this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Bradford, Mr. Madigan, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MADIGAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOGGARD. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the gentleman if sulphur dioxide is a poison?

Mr. MADIGAN. Mr. Speaker, I did not get the question.

Mr. HOGGARD. Mr. Speaker, I want to ask the gentleman if sulphur dioxide is a poison?

Mr. MADIGAN. I believe it is, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOGGARD. Mr. Speaker, I should further like to ask the gentleman if this drug has any effect on vitamins.

Mr. MADIGAN. Mr. Speaker, I did not get the question very plainly, and I wish to make this observation: if the gentleman has some technical questions, I would direct him to an authority in the House. I am not a chemist. I will not be able to answer any technical questions.

Mr. HOGGARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask someone if sulphur dioxide in any way destroys the potency of vitamins.

Mr. MADIGAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to yield to Dr. Sarraf temporarily.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman states he does not have that information.

Mr. HOGGARD. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Dr. Sarraf, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SARRAF. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOGGARD. Mr. Speaker, my first question was: is sulphur dioxide a poison?

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, it is.

Mr. HOGGARD. Mr. Speaker, and if it is, does it in any way have any effect on vitamins, destroying or diminishing the effect of vitamins?

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, I do not know if it would have any effect on vitamins, but when I answered the first question—I wish to elaborate a little; it is poisonous similar to arsenic or any other medication or chemical in specific strength.

In the minute dosage that is in this bill, over a long period of time a sensitive individual may have a cumulative reaction; but just like the coloring and bleaching in bread, this will not kill anyone in this minimal dose,—and it is a minimal dose, there is no doubt about it.

Mr. HOGGARD. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman. I was just raising these questions because Dr. E. V. McCollum, who for a number of years aided the biological department at Johns Hopkins University,—I think he also discovered some of the vitamins—stated that sulphur dioxide is very destructive to vitamins.

Vitamin C which is very elusive and yet very essential and goes a long way in preventing scurvy has for its technical term the name anti-scorbutic vitamin, is certainly destroyed by this sulphur dioxide, according to Dr. McCollum.

It has a great deal of effect on vitamin B, which has to do with one's nerves. If the body does not get enough of vitamin B, I am sure the authorities on medicine will agree, it brings about nervousness.

It has a great deal of effect on vitamin A, according to this same authority, and according to the editor of the American Medical Association about two years ago, the lack of vitamin A goes a long way in affecting eyesight, and sulphur dioxide is the thing that these doctors have emphasized most as going far in destroying these vitamins. I wanted this much information in the record.

Mr. STONER. Mr. Speaker, I think the purpose of sulphur dioxide, as it is used in the bill, is to keep vegetables in their original color. For example, an apple as it is processed for pies, if they use a small amount of it, keeps the original apple color. That is the purpose of the bill.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to read a short statement. This is an extract from a Dispensatory of the United States of America, a book that the druggists use when they want to know anything about any drug.

It is a long article and I will only read the part that is underlined in the book.

Its use in food products, however, should not be encouraged, as it is well demonstrated that the continued ingestion of sulphides is injurious to the kidneys.

Yesterday afternoon we called the president of the largest producer in Pennsylvania, the Musselman Company, who processes more frozen apples and cherries than anyone else, I believe, in the state of Pennsylvania. We asked the president if they used sulphur dioxide in their products, and he said: "Definitely not. We do not use any sulphur dioxide in our products, as it is absolutely not good for human consumption."

That was a telephone conversation yesterday with the president of the Musselman Company in Pennsylvania, and I think the man should know what he is talking about.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

"Net Income" 1 Net income for the calendar year or fiscal year as returned to and ascertained by the Federal Government or in the case of a corporation participating in the filing of consolidated returns to the Federal Government the net income which would have been returned to and ascertained by the Federal Government if separate returns had been made to the Federal Government for the current and prior taxable years subject however to any correction thereof for fraud evasion or error as finally ascertained by the Federal Government Provided That additional deductions shall be allowed from net income on account of any dividends received from any other corporation And provided further That no deduction shall be allowed for any Federal income or excess profits taxes whatsoever except the declared value excess profits tax And provided further That no deduction shall be allowed for net operating losses sustained by the corporation during any other fiscal or calendar year And provided further That in the case of stock life fire casualty and indemnity insurance companies operating on the mutual or participating plan the term "net income" shall not include the dividends paid to policyholders out of net income

2 In the case of corporations owning property or carrying on activities within and without this Commonwealth other than corporations carrying on activities as insurance or surety companies the net income of such corporations derived from sources within this Commonwealth for the fiscal or calendar year shall be determined by allocations and apportionments of net income as defined in clause one hereof made as follows

(a) Gains realized and losses sustained from the sale or exchange of capital assets if such assets consist of real estate or tangible personal property situated in the Commonwealth shall be allocated to this Commonwealth

(b) Gains realized and losses sustained from the sale or exchange of capital assets if such assets of real estate or tangible personal property situated outside of the Commonwealth shall not be allocated in any part to this Commonwealth

(c) The resultant net income if any after allocations shall be divided into three equal parts

(2) Of one-third such portion shall be attributed to the Commonwealth as shall be found by multiplying said one-third by a fraction whose numerator is the expenditures of the corporation for wages salaries commissions and other compensation to its employees and assignable to this Commonwealth as hereinafter provided and whose denominator is the total expenditures of the corporation for wages salaries commissions and other compensation to all its employees

(3) Of the remaining third such portion shall be attributed to the Commonwealth as shall be found by multiplying said third by a fraction whose numerator is the amount of the taxpayer's gross receipts from property and activities assignable to this Commonwealth as hereinafter provided and whose denominator is the amount of the taxpayer's gross receipts from all its property and activities

In cases where only two of the foregoing three rules are applicable the remainder of the net income of the corporation shall be divided into two equal parts only each of which shall be apportioned in accordance with one of the remaining two rules. If only one of the three rules is applicable the part of the net income received from property and activities carried on within the Commonwealth shall be determined solely by that rule.

The amount assignable to this Commonwealth of expenditures of the corporation for wages salaries commissions or other compensation to its employees shall be such expenditures for the taxable year as represent the wages salaries commissions or other compensation of employees to the extent of services rendered or work performed in the Commonwealth and similar expenditures to employees not chiefly situated at connected with or sent out from premises for the transaction of business maintained by the corporation outside the Commonwealth.

In the case of construction contracts negotiated or effected at an office in the State of Pennsylvania but performed outside the State the gross receipts under such contracts shall be assignable outside the State except that if the activities under any such contract to which the gross receipts are attributable shall occur partly within the State and partly outside the State such proportion of the gross receipts under said contract shall be assignable to Pennsylvania as the direct and indirect costs incurred in Pennsylvania under the contract for the taxable year bear to the total costs incurred thereunder for the taxable year. In the case of construction contracts negotiated or effected at an office outside the State but performed in the State the gross receipts under such contracts shall be assignable to the State except that if the activities under any such contract to which the gross receipts are attributable shall occur partly within the State and partly outside the State such proportion of the gross receipts under said contract shall be assignable to Pennsylvania as the direct and indirect costs incurred in the State under the contract for the taxable year bear to the total costs incurred thereunder for the taxable year.

A rule shall not be deemed to be inapplicable merely because all the tangible property or the expenditures of a corporation for wages salaries commissions or other compensation or the gross receipts of the corporation are found to be situated incurred or received without the Commonwealth.

3 In the case of corporations carrying on activities as insurance or surety companies within and without this Commonwealth the net income of such corporation derived from sources within this Commonwealth for the fiscal or calendar year shall be determined by multiplying net income as defined in clause one hereof by a fraction of which the numerator is the gross premiums received from activities carried on within the Commonwealth as hereinafter defined and of which the denominator is the amount of the gross premiums received from all its activities everywhere.

"Gross Premiums" shall mean the amount of dues fees and premiums stated in the policy contracts and shall include gross premiums of every character and description received during the taxable year from all underwriting activities whether said premiums were received in money or in the form of notes credits or any other substitute for money less the following deductions:

(a) All premiums returned on policies cancelled or not taken.

(b) In the case of stock companies with participating features an additional deduction for that portion of the premiums returned to the policyholders.

"Gross premiums received from activities carried on in the Commonwealth" shall mean gross premiums received from policies and annuities written on property or risks located or resident in this Commonwealth whether such premiums were collected in this Commonwealth or elsewhere.

"Sources within this Commonwealth" includes tangible or intangible property located or having a situs in this Commonwealth and any activities carried on in this Commonwealth regardless of whether carried on in intrastate interstate or foreign commerce.

"Carrying on activities" shall include every act power or privilege exercised or enjoyed in this Commonwealth as an incident to or by virtue of the powers and privileges acquired by the nature of the corporate organization.

"Person" Every natural person association or corporation. Whenever used in any clause prescribing and imposing a fine or imprisonment or both the term "person" as applied to associations shall mean the partners or members thereof and as applied to corporations the officers thereof.

(b) If as a result of such final change or correction there should be any change made in the amount of the net income of any corporation upon which tax is imposed by this act the department shall have the power and its duty shall be to resettle such taxes Whenever a resettlement shall have been made hereunder the department shall resettle the account according to law and shall credit or change as the case may be the amount resulting from such resettlement upon the current accounts of the corporation with which it is made. The resettlement shall be subject to audit and approval by the Department of the Auditor General as in the case of original settlements and in case of the failure of the two departments to agree the resettlement shall be submitted to the Board of Finance and Revenue as in the case of original settlements

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the Majority Leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, for the purposes of the record I would like to ask how much, according to the budget office, will this bill raise?

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the amount varies considerably. There does not seem to be any exact amount offered as to what it will raise. Anything I understand from the sponsor would be a wild guess.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, what has become of the infallible divining powers of the Secretary of the Budget if he presents to this House a measure as a wild guess at a time when we have a critical and crucial financial problem confronting the General Assembly?

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, this came through the Department of Revenue and the Department of Justice.

I do not see what difference it would make whether it would bring in one million or five million as long as it does bring in money which we are not getting now. From what I can find out from any body in authority, there is no way to gauge it. There would have to be at least a biennium of experience to make a prediction as to what it will bring in in the future.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

It is pretty well known how much the liquor business brings into Pennsylvania; it is pretty well known what portion of the total out-put of cigarette manufacture comes into Pennsylvania; it is pretty well known, all down the line what is Pennsylvania's consumption of various products which I presume are put out by the companies that will be taxed; how much the volume is, and if the Secretary of the budget can estimate one branch of Pennsylvania business, he surely can estimate another.

It is pretty well known how much the liquor business brings into Pennsylvania; it is pretty well known what portion of the total out-put of cigarette manufacture comes into Pennsylvania; it is pretty well known, all down the line what is Pennsylvania's consumption of various products which I presume are put out by the companies that will be taxed; how much the volume is, and if the Secretary of the budget can estimate one branch of Pennsylvania business, he surely can estimate another.

I certainly disagree with the reply of the Majority Leader when he says, at a time when we are reaching out for money, when there is confusion in the financial status of this Commonwealth, "it does not take any difference whether the measure proposed raises a dollar or a million, or fifty million."

I have heard estimates that this kind of a bill would be good for at least twenty-five million. I do not have the faintest idea whether that is so, but if the administration is coming into this Assembly with a bill that might possibly raise $5 million, $10 million, $15 million, we ought to know it so we can tailor our legislative program according to the cloth available.

I think it is about time that we resolve some of the confusion that prevails. We have a Majority Leader telling this House, and telling the people of this Commonwealth that the House end of the General Assembly has finished its task of initiating financial legislation, tax raising legislation.

Then the next day we have the Governor of the Commonwealth saying he does not know about it; as far as he is concerned he will take other alternative proposals. Who is right, the respected Majority Leader or the Governor?

Are we or are we not standing pat on the tax proposal presented? Has the Majority Leader been repudiated by the statement of the Executive or is the Majority Leader in this House still in full command of the fiscal situation as far as tax legislation is concerned?

This bill comes somewhat as a surprise, and it comes without any authority as to what it is going to raise. Are there any more bills of similar character in the offing? We are curtailing legislation in this House because apparently there is not the money available upon the horizon.

I say that we ought to know. Are they in favor of this bill? I say it is a lamentable situation for this House to consider tax legislation and not know whether it raises a dollar or $60 million.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I will yield to the gentleman who sponsored this bill in just a minute, but first I think there is a statement that should be cleared up.

I am sure that the gentleman, whom I consider quite an authority on tax measures, and to whom I would yield at any time because of his knowledge of the budget, cannot give us an answer as to how much money this bill will bring in. I am sure there is no answer, because there is no practical experience on which we can base an answer.

I do want to say to him that if the papers, or if anyone else has misinterpreted the Governor's statement, this House still stands on the statement that we have passed the program of the administration on to the Senate, that is still the program of the House regardless of any statement made by anyone.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, all I have to say in reply to the Majority Leader is, that ain't the way I read it in the papers.

Mr. SCANLON. Mr. Speaker, would a motion to adjourn be in order at the moment?

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman, a motion to adjourn is in order at any time. However the Chair questions the advisability of such a motion at this time.

Mr. SCANLON. Mr. Speaker, what is the bill we are debating?

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman we are debating House Bill 1303 on page 20.

Mr. SCANLON. Mr. Speaker, I will yield, and before the next bill is called up I would like to be recognized.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Kent, to explain this bill.

Mr. KENT. Mr. Speaker, in order to clear up any confusion that might exist as to just what this bill does, I would like to make a brief statement of what it does, or purports to do.

There is a situation in Pennsylvania where certain corporations that do business in Pennsylvania are not included under our present corporate net income tax. The reason they are not included is because they are exclusively engaged in interstate or foreign commerce.

Under decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States they are not subject to the corporate net income tax in Pennsylvania which has been designated as a franchise or a privilege tax, a tax on the privilege of doing business in Pennsylvania. Those corporations received a great deal of benefit from the activity that they carry on in Pennsylvania and they receive those benefits at the expense of Pennsylvania.

The sole purpose of this bill, you might say, is to make those corporations share some of the tax burden for the benefits they receive. This tax will accomplish that thing.

When I first became acquainted with this bill and with the people who were interested in it, and asked me to sponsor it, my first question was the same one that the Minority Leader has asked. I wanted to know, if any one could tell me, how much it would yield. That is important. It is important to the administration; it is important to all of us who have to sit here and pass on tax legislation and on appropriations.

I made what I considered a sincere effort to obtain reliable information upon which an estimate could be based and to date I have been unable to obtain it.

I have heard what I consider guesses, and I have read, both in the Senate journal and in the newspapers guesses which I consider to be wild guesses as to the yield that this tax if passed will bring in. They have been all the way from $5 million to $40 million.

I believe the administration is interested in knowing what it will yield, but I think, and I am sure they are in the same position I find myself in. We just do not know, and I do not think that is such an unusual situation because we have no experience upon which to base any estimate at this time.

We can make estimates of the yield of taxes which we reenact, because there is some basis of experience upon which we can make an estimate. That is not true in this case. I certainly believe it will yield a dollar, and a good bit more than that, but that is about as much as anyone can say.

I think the bill is important because it closes a loophole which exists in our present tax structure, and it will certainly force those who receive a great many benefits from our Commonwealth to pay a little something for those benefits which they are not doing at this time. I urge the membership of the House to pass this bill.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, it is, of course, unnecessary to urge the Members of this House to support this bill. I cannot conceive of any reason why any member of the House should oppose it.

But here we are facing appropriation bills for essential purposes that have been curtailed by the Appropriations Committee because there is not sufficient money. I could name cause after cause that has been short changed because "there is not sufficient money"—that is the plea. Are these essential causes to be neglected only to the end that we show a surplus at the end of the biennium.

I say to the membership of the House that it is inconceivable, that it is impossible to make a sound minimum estimate as to the yield of this particular tax. I say to the majority leadership that it is incumbent upon the integrity of that leadership that very shortly they tell us whether we are going to have a million dollars more than we thought we would have, two million, five million more than we thought we would have in order that the essential needs that are being short changed should be financed.

I would suggest that during the week-end the financial advisors of the administration sharpen their pencils, consult trade records, get in touch with Washington, get in touch with outstanding wholesalers as to the volume of various products that are shipped into Pennsylvania and come in next Monday with some faint idea as to what this bill will produce. When they do that then we can take some of the neglected causes and perhaps finance them in minor fashion.

Mr. KENT. Mr. Speaker, there is one other point I would like to clear up that I did not mention before.

This particular tax does not apply to those companies or corporations who are now susceptible or are paying tax under our present corporate net income tax. In other words this one reaches only those who are now exempt, you might say, from the corporate net income tax.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask a couple questions from the sponsor of the bill, if I may.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Kent, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KENT. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Just as a source of information, is there any tax similar to the one we are now working on enacted in any other state?

Mr. KENT. I understand in California.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Has the constitutionality of such a law been tested, does the gentleman know?

Mr. KENT. Mr. Speaker, to answer I would have to ask the gentleman a question. Do you mean the constitutionality of the present act or what is included in this bill?

Mr. LOPRESTI. Yes. This type of tax.

Mr. KENT. I cannot answer definitely. I would say no, because the decision of the Supreme Court which gave rise to the authorship of this bill was only decided, I believe, March 19, 1951.

Mr. LOPRESTI. For my own information, because undoubtedly someone will ask me about this tax, what does it actually do; what do we tax, or what is the method? I will admit I am not familiar with it, and I am just trying to get some information.

Mr. KENT. It is in the nature of a property tax, Mr. Speaker. It is a tax on the property, or the activities of the company in Pennsylvania which are carried on in Pennsylvania, based upon the income that they derive from that property or activity.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I thank the gentleman.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1351, entitled:

An Act to further amend subsection C of Section 1 of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred forty-seven (P. L. 1145) entitled "An act empowering cities of the second class cities of the second class A cities of the third class boroughs towns townships of the first class school districts of the second class school districts of the third class and school districts of the fourth class to levy assesses and collect or to provide for the levying assessment and collection of certain additional taxes subject to maximum limitations for general revenue purposes authorizing the establishment of bureaus and the appointment and compensation of officers and employees to assess and collect such taxes and permitting penalties to be imposed and enforced providing an appeal from the ordinance or resolution levying such taxes to the court of quarter sessions and to the Supreme Court and Superior Court" by excluding taxes imposed on real property transfers in certain school districts in determining tax limitations

Section 1 Subsection C of Section 1 of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred forty-seven (P. L. 1145) entitled "An act empowering cities of the second class cities of the second class A cities of the third class boroughs towns townships of the first class school districts of the second class districts of the third class and school districts of the fourth class to levy assess and collect or to provide for the levying assessment and collection of certain additional taxes subject to maximum limitations for general revenue purposes authorizing the establishment of bureaus and the appointment and compensation of officers and employees to assess and collect such taxes and permitting penalties to be imposed and enforced providing an appeal from the ordinance or resolution levying such taxes to the court of quarter sessions and to the Supreme and Superior court" as last amended by the act approved the ninth day of May one thousand nine hundred forty-nine (P. L. 898) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 1 * * * * *

C Over-all Limit of Tax Revenues The aggregate amount of taxes imposed by enactment of an ordinance or resolution by any political subdivision under this section and in effect during any fiscal year shall not exceed an amount equal to the product obtained by multiplying the total assessed valuation of real estate in such political subdivision.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the sponsor of this bill give a brief resume of what the bill does.

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Speaker, this bill would take the one percent real estate transfer tax out of the limitation which has been put on taxation for school districts and municipalities.

Under Act 481 the school district could levy a tax not to exceed fifteen mills times the assessed valuation of the district. Now, one percent real estate tax is an unknown quantity, the school district or the borough council could not determine how much revenue a transfer real estate tax would produce, because one never knows how much real estate is going to be sold. So that this bill would eliminate that from the maximum fifteen mills which could be levied.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I presume this bill is inspired by the fact that some particular locality levied a transfer tax and then found it was bringing in more money than was required. Therefore, on the basis of a local instance it is proposed to make a general application. This is the beginning of a campaign for various proposed taxes to get from under the 481 tent.

You begin in one direction and the other fellow says he wants to be excluded from the total. I do not think it is a sound public policy to legislate for the Commonwealth on the basis of a local instance. Especially if the locality has it within its power to applying its own remedies as every locality has. And so, on the ground that this bill is opposed to sound public policy, I hope it will not be passed by this House.

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Speaker, it was not a case of levying this tax and finding that they had too much money. It was a case where the maximum of thirty-five mills on real estate was levied on real estate, the maximum of five dollars per capita tax had been levied, and one per cent real estate transfer tax had been levied. The money was needed. But under 481 they were only permitted to collect fifteen mills times the assessed valuation. That has happened in more than one school district. The school district needs money to build buildings, to pay their teachers, what have you. They are doing everything they possibly can do locally. However, most of the tax is on real estate, and because the real estate transfer tax produces more than fifteen mills times the assessed valuation, they cannot levy any personal tax or any other form of taxation.

I think it is rather unfair that one individual who buys a piece of real estate should pay a one percent transfer tax on it, and two or three months or six months later another individual buys the same piece of real estate and does not pay any tax. This may only happen in certain localities, that is true, but we have a situation at the moment where a school district has money in its treasury that it cannot spend until the next fiscal year, because they collected more than fifteen mills times the assessed valuation.

I think this is a fair bill. I think taking the transfer tax out of that limitation is fair because it is an unknown quantity; you cannot determine how much the tax will yield. Also it permits school districts to levy other personal taxes, which help to relieve the burden upon real estate.

Another reason is that a one percent transfer real estate tax amounts to about one year's tax on real estate. In our section, a fifth class county, at least eleven and one-half months must pass from the time a new home is completed until tax is due on it. The one percent transfer real estate tax amounts to about thirty five mills on a thirty three and one third percent assessment. So it really means that you are only paying one year's tax in that way.

Therefore, I feel this bill should pass, and I ask for your support.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Bucks Mr. Keller, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does this bill in any way affect the allotments made to distressed school districts?

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Speaker, not at all.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does this bill in any way prohibit the enactment of a wage tax for school purposes?

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Speaker, if the transfer of real estate tax is eliminated from the fifteen mills maximum, then any tax permitted under 481 would be permissible up to fifteen mills times the assessed valuation.

There are a number of districts that have a one percent transfer of real estate tax which might produce half a mill or one mill times the assessed valuation. It just so happens that there are some districts who have a real estate boom on and are in a position to accumulate money for school purposes to build new buildings and to pay rentals for buildings under the state authority and really aid themselves in financing their school problems, but as long as the fifteen mills limit is in the Act, of course they are limited to that amount.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, in other words, would you say that the particular district could collect more tax than they would be allowed to spend?

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Speaker, no, not more than they would be allowed to spend.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I just cannot follow the thought of this particular bill. You need additional revenue and you are changing the millage, or you are taking out from under the millage question this particular tax, is that right?

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Speaker, we are taking the one percent transfer real estate tax which is permitted under 481 out of the limitation which is also in 481.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, that is the point that I was really after. You are taking that particular tax out from under the limits.

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Speaker, out of the limitation.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the suggestion. I might be wrong in my view of this bill, and I welcome the opportunity to give it more consideration, to once again bring it before our caucus. If I find, thinking things over over the week-end that I am wrong, I will be very glad to join with the gentleman from Bucks to act on the bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1366, as follows:

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section one thousand one hundred ninety-two of the act approved the tenth day of March one thousand nine hundred forty-nine (P.
